(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Brevity is the soul of wit. That you all know.

Brevity is the soul of all writing. The man worth while writes, as Montaigne said of himself, 'Not that you may read, but that you may think."

A flood of words chokes thought. The right thought briefly expressed promotes thought.

This writer had thought that the shortest complete expression of thought was to be found, outside of well-known Proverbs and maxims, in some of the very short chapters of Montesquieu's admirable "Spirit of Laws.' Here and there you come across a chapter containing only three or four lines.

That is admirable brevity. But consider the seven sermons written by Rev. Roy L. Smith, who preaches at the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church in Minneapolis.

The Rev. Mr. Smith intends that those that hear shall do at least the thinking.

These are some of his sermons, numbered:

1—If we have no ideals we are like a tourist without road maps, markers or guides.

2—If we have no Ambition we are like an engine without any fuel.

3—If we have no Self Respect we are like reeds without any resistance.

4—If we have no Faith we are like a car on a miry road.

5—If we have no Education we are like sheep that must be herded.

6—If we have no Charity we live in a world perpetually frozen.

7—If we have no Facts we had better keep forever silent in an argument.

It is a shame to spoil that admirable brevity by adding a word. Nevertheless we ask you to consider one or two other samples of brevity each of which starts thinking—the important thing.

"To be or not to be, that is the question."

Those are probably the best known 10 words in all of Shakespeare. You couldn't improve on them, for brevity.

And you couldn't improve on these four words, also from Hamlet:

"The rest is silence."

Passing suddenly from Shakespeare, you read this bit of concise wisdom:

"Conscience get a lot of credit that ought to be charged up to cold feet."

There is deep wisdom in that.

A man gets rich, tries to make up for the wrong or the cheating that he has done, and thinks his conscience is working. But really, it is his fear of living the rest of his life with a low opinion of himself, or his fear of what may happen to him hereafter. In other words, "cold feet" should have the credit for his good deeds.

For perfect examples of brevity read "The Maxims of La Rochefoucauld." There you will find the wisdom of centuries boiled down into few words. Where you find action, you usually find brevity."

Milton, who lived in the realm of thought, but not of action, wrote beautiful, long letters in Latin while he acted as Cromwell's secretary. Cromwell, writing for himself in plain English, wrote the shortest kind of communications. But what a terrific "punch" was in them!

Voltaire was dreary in his diffusions when writing his plays that have not lived, marvelously brief and powerful in the great fight that established his fame forever.

No victory won on the battlefield outshines in glory or courage the vic-

The Riffians and France were considered virtually at war and French airmen were reported in dispatches to be "heavily bombing the Riffians."

An important concentration of Riffians was reported to have been made near Tissa, 25 miles northeast of Fez, toward which city Abed-El-Kirm is making his drive. This would place the Riffians 20 miles inside the French outposts. (Dispatches Saturday said 10 French outposts had been isolated by the Riffian drive).

Among the French and Moorish forces engaged against the Riffians were 18 infantry battalions, six squadrons of cavalry and 12 batteries of artillery.

In addition to 4,000 men in the field, Abed-El-Krim is said to be holding 4,000 men in reserve for either a surprise attack or to reinforce his combat forces.

COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SECRETARY TURNS GUNS ON 'NO LEFT TURN' AND 'NO PARKING' REGULATIONS

Condemnation of the so-called "no left turn" and the "no parking" regulations in front of theaters, except which theaters are in use, was voiced today by E. M. Diehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club.

"Removal of these restrictions, put into effect by the police during the last few weeks, will make it easier for the automobile driver to get about," Diehl says.

"If traffic is to be regulated effectively, the traffic system must be revised with a view to simplifying matters for the average intelligence, otherwise traffic accidents will be on the increase and safety will suffer as a consequence of fear and timidity as well as uncalled for regulations," he declared.

As a means of solving the traffic situation here, Diehl urges the installation of traffic lights at the principal cross streets if the money is available. Several members of the automobile club have promised to make contributions to provide a traffic light system in the event that the city is unable to provide the needed funds.

"Traffic lights have proved very helpful to both pedestrians and motorists in other cities, both larger and and smaller than East Liverpool, and there is no real reason why traffic lights would not be practical and an excellent investment," Diehl said.

He expressed the opinion that local officials are exaggerating the seriousness of traffic problem by certain regulations which have been announced recently.

"The so-called problem of left turn is an admission of inadequate traffic control," Diehl said. "Left turns put a stop to round-the-block business. Several cases in this city prove that if one left turn were permitted, four left turns, now necessary, would be eliminated.

"For fear of making some error in negotiating a left turn, many drivers often go completely around the block, proceeding in the desired direction by means of this primitive expedient. Then they try to make up for lost time by driving hastily and thus jeopardizing pedestrians and taking unwarranted chances.

"Traffic Complex" Sufferers

"The average driver is made to feel that traffic is a sort of contest in which a false move may mean arrest. Even the law-abiding driver comes to fear traffic with the result that he arrives at the crossing in a highly nervous state, suffering from an ailment known as the 'traffic complex.' Traffic is being regulated and legislated to a point where the average driver becomes confused at the expense of safety, because of the multiplicity of unnecessary rules that are constantly being made and withdrawn.

"A section of the city traffic ordinance provides 20 feet in front of or near the entrances to theatres and churches as a 'no parking' area, while such building is in use. This is believed sufficient and the police department should not designate such areas as 'no parking' zones at all times.

"Motor clubs have no records showing a four-corner stop regulation in use anywhere, and therefore oppose experimenting with automobile traffic. Such an addition to the present city traffic ordinance as would require vehicles to stop before entering or crossing a main thoroughfare is well worthy of consideration. However, its need should be carefully studied and some thought given the possibilities of enforcing it before any action is taken.

Reasonable Enforcement

"Washington street is our only one-way street. Although no one thing pleases everyone, little objection has been registered regarding Washington street. It is reasonable to expect that drivers appreciate the elim-

BIG DIRIGIBLE IS NEAR PORT

Air Cruiser Los Angeles Speeds to Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—The huge navy dirigible Los Angeles is within a few hundred miles of Porto Rico and is flying smoothly, the navy department announced shortly afternoon today.

The information came in an intercepted dispatch from the Los Angeles to the naval air station at Lakehurst, N. J.

"According to our reports, the Los Angeles has had good wind the entire distance and the swiftness of her flight has exceeded her highest hopes," said Acting Commandant Joseph M. Deen.

At 8:15 p. m., last night, the Los Angeles was 205 miles off Cape Hatteras.

"The ship cast off", said Captain Steele, "carrying 40 men, gasoline sufficient for four engines at cruising speed of 42 hours and just sufficient ballast for safety".

Crossing the gulf stream was attended by the customary patches of clouds, causing the airship to "raise and fall in a leisurely fashion', the commonder reported.

East Liverpool Boy Will Accompany Pilot to Brussels.

CONTEST MUDDLE

Referee Seeks to Disqualify Two Balloonists.

The Goodyear III, in charge of W. T. Van Orman, pilot, and Carl K. Wollam, former East Liverpool youth, aide, won the national elimination balloon race, which ended yesterday.

The Goodyear entry landed at Reform, Ala., approximately 600 miles from St. Joseph, Mo., the taking off place. Second place was won by Captain H. E. Honeywell, whose balloon, the St. Joseph, was brought down near Aberdeen, Miss., early Sunday morning.

Van Orman and Wollam were in charge of the Goodyear entry, which won last year's national race starting from San Antonio, the balloon landing near Rochester, Minn., after being in the air approximately 43 hours. Van Orman and Wollam went to Belgium where they took part in the international races afterwards.

Van Orman Veteran Racer.

Wollam and Van Orman are regarded leaders in the lighter-than-air field. Wollam learned to fly under the direction of the late Major Thomas Baldwin and at the outbreak of the World War assisted Major Baldwin in training pilots for the Canadian service at the Curtiss school in Buffalo. He remained with Curtiss until the United States entered the war and was then selected to go to Akron where Goodyear was assembling its first dirigible for the United States navy. Later he was detailed to naval training stations along the Atlantic seaboard as a test pilot, instructor and airship rigger.

Wollam holds pilot certificates for all types of modern aircrafts and is regarded as an authority in the lighter-than-air field. Van Orman who has taken part in 10 major flights, has flown in every national race since 1919 and in three international races.

McLean Tire and Rubber Co. Plant to Resume Operations

Pittsburgh Rubber Co. Leases East End Holdings From Continental Trust Co. Bondholders.

The plant of the McLean Tire & Rubber company, East End, which has been idle for approximately one year, will soon be placed in operation by the Pittsburgh Rubber company, it was announced today.

The new company, it is understood, has leased the plant from the Continental Trust company, bondholders, and will engage in the manufacture of rubber tires and tubes. A force of men will be sent here at once to get the plant in readiness for operation.

The plant has been idle since last May 15, when it went into the hands of receivers. Since then, C. V. Beatty has had charge of the defunct company's holdings.

When running to full capacity, the plant will employ approximately 200 persons, many of them skilled rubber workers. Most of the men who were employed by the McLean firm, have left the city. Skilled workers will be brought here to fill their places.

All machinery, boilers and other equipment was left in the plant when it went into receivership.

H. H. Middleton was manager of the McLean plant. George H. Stewart, who was formerly associated with the company, is now in charge of the Milestone Rubber company office in the Community Bank building, East Fifth street.

12-HOUR NEW YORK-EAST LIVERPOOL MAIL SERVICE IS ASSURED BUSINESS MEN

Faster Delivery of Postal Packages From Eastern Cities Follows Appeal of Chamber of Commerce.

Through the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce, East Liverpool has been given improved mail service from New York, Philadelphia and other eastern points, it was announced today.

Heretofore mail sent from New York in the evening failed to reach here until late the following afternoon. By the new arrangement, eastern mail will reach the city on the 9:42 a. m. train from Pittsburgh.

About two weeks ago, the chamber interested Marcus Aaron, Pittsburgh business man and president of the Homer Laughlin China company, in the better mail service movement. Further conferences were arranged with J. V. Mansfield, Pittsburgh, chief clerk of the Railway Mail service.

H. B. Barth, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce set about to improve mail service between New York and East Liverpool. Conferences were held with postal and railroad officials in an effort to improve conditions.

Several months ago arrangements were made to have the mail sent from Pittsburgh to Leetonia, thence sent to this city over the Y. & O. railroad. This made it possible for the mail to reach here at 2 o'clock. Through

STALKED BY FAMINE, 4,000 RIFFIANS BATTLE 12,000 FRENCH IN MOROCCO

Paris Airmen are Reported to be "Heavily Bombing" Tribesmen Who are Burning Villages—Troop Reinforcements Called.

RABAT, Morocco, May 4.—Stalked by famine 4,000 Riffians under the leadership of Abed-El-Krim, "Robinhood of Morocco are battling 12,000 French troops in French Morocco and burning villages in Spanish-Morocco today, according to advices from the field.

The Riffians and France were considered virtually at war and French airmen were reported in dispatches to be "heavily bombing the Riffians."

The situation has become so serious that all available French and Moorish troops have been hurried to the scene of action. An important concentration of Riffians was reported to have been made near Tissa, 25 miles northeast of Fez, toward which city Abed-El-Kirm is making his drive. This would place the Riffians 20 miles inside the French outposts. (Dispatches Saturday said 10 French outposts had been isolated by the Riffian drive).

Among the French and Moorish forces engaged against the Riffians were 18 infantry battalions, six squadrons of cavalry and 12 batteries of artillery.

In addition to 4,000 men in the field, Abed-El-Krim is said to be holding 4,000 men in reserve for either a surprise attack or to reinforce his combat forces.

The Riffians were reported to be facing a tragic shortage of food and raids have been made on towns in the

COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SECRETARY TURNS GUNS ON 'NO LEFT TURN' AND 'NO PARKING' REGULATIONS

Condemnation of the so-called "no left turn" and the "no parking" regulations in front of theaters, except which theaters are in use, was voiced today by E. M. Diehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club.

"Removal of these restrictions, put into effect by the police during the last few weeks, will make it easier for the automobile driver to get about," Diehl says.

"If traffic is to be regulated effectively, the traffic system must be revised with a view to simplifying matters for the average intelligence, otherwise traffic accidents will be on the increase and safety will suffer as a consequence of fear and timidity as well as uncalled for regulations," he declared.

As a means of solving the traffic situation here, Diehl urges the installation of traffic lights at the principal cross streets if the money is available. Several members of the automobile club have promised to make contributions to provide a traffic light system in the event that the city is unable to provide the needed funds.

"Traffic lights have proved very helpful to both pedestrians and motorists in other cities, both larger and and smaller than East Liverpool, and there is no real reason why traffic lights would not be practical and an excellent investment," Diehl said.

He expressed the opinion that local officials are exaggerating the seriousness of traffic problem by certain regulations which have been announced recently.

"The so-called problem of left turn is an admission of inadequate traffic control," Diehl said. "Left turns put a stop to round-the-block business. Several cases in this city prove that if one left turn were permitted, four left turns, now necessary, would be eliminated.

"For fear of making some error in negotiating a left turn, many drivers often go completely around the block, proceeding in the desired direction by means of this primitive expedient. Then they try to make up for lost time by driving hastily and thus jeopardizing pedestrians and taking unwarranted chances.

"Traffic Complex" Sufferers

"The average driver is made to feel that traffic is a sort of contest in which a false move may mean arrest. Even the law-abiding driver comes to fear traffic with the result that he arrives at the crossing in a highly nervous state, suffering from an ailment known as the 'traffic complex.' Traffic is being regulated and legislated to a point where the average driver becomes confused at the expense of safety, because of the multiplicity of unnecessary rules that are constantly being made and withdrawn.

"A section of the city traffic ordinance provides 20 feet in front of or near the entrances to theatres and churches as a 'no parking' area, while such building is in use. This is believed sufficient and the police department should not designate such areas as 'no parking' zones at all times.

"Motor clubs have no records showing a four-corner stop regulation in use anywhere, and therefore oppose experimenting with automobile traffic. Such an addition to the present city traffic ordinance as would require vehicles to stop before entering or crossing a main thoroughfare is well worthy of consideration. However, its need should be carefully studied and some thought given the possibilities of enforcing it before any action is taken.

COOLIDGE HITS RACIAL HATRED

Condemns Religious Prejudice in Extolling American Jews.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Racial hatred and jealousy, particularly that based on religious differences, has no place in the United States today, President Coolidge told an audience of 5,000 people in a Sunday sermon delivered here at the dedication of a new Jewish community center.

The president extolled the record and character of American Jews and praised their participation in the development of the nation.

"Every inheritance of the Jewish people, draws them powerfully to the side of charity, liberty and progress," he said, "and we may be sure they will not desert it."

"The work of spiritual unification is not completed. Factional, sectional, social and political lines of conflict still persist. Despite all experience, society continues to engender the hatreds and jealousies whereof are born domestic strife and international conflict.

"But education and enlightment are breaking the force. Reason is emerging."

Prominent Jewish leaders, including Louis Marshall, of New York, assailed anti-Semetic movements, and particularly denounced Prof. Philip Marshall Brown, of Princeton, whose recent charge that Jews maintained "dual citizenship" recently erupted the convention of the American Society of International Law.

"The very suggestion that we hold a divided allegiance," said Marshall, "is an insult to the memory of the Jews who in every period of American history gladly gave their lives and their possessions for the preservation of this government."

tory that Voltaire won in the Callas case.

Try to attain brevity. Few words, much thought lead to success.

Miss Christobel Pankhurst, formerly an ardent worker for woman suffrage, is now "searching in the Scriptures," as Cromwell used to say. She discovers in an ancient Biblical prophecy signs of a world crash, coming very soon.

She foresees first a federation of all the powers of Europe, one superman at the top. One religion, one kind of education, enormous wealth. The superman will be the reincarnation of "the beast" in Revelation. And then, when everything is nicely fixed, will come the terrific smash. That will be necessary because the superman scheme will be Godless.

You read that and worry a good deal, and then you read what is said by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in London, the profoundly learned clergyman, who ought to know what he is talking about. Dean Inge, discussing a new translation of the Bible, says that the Old Testament merely describes the beliefs of a savage tribe of Bedouins, the earliest Jewish people, and the Rev. Inge adds that modern religious ideas can't be based on those Bedouin theories.

He thinks that a good deal of the Bible should be eliminated, as part of it is not the sort of thing you should read aloud in the family. In fact, his servants were horrified, and asked him to stop when he had read certain parts, even expurgated.

These conflicting opinions of Mrs. Pankhurst and the dean are confusing. You remember reading in the Old Testament about the laws of slavery. It is said that if one of the ancient Jews had a Jewish slave he must let him go free after seven years. Slaves not Jewish remained slaves forever. But if that Jewish slave had married in his master's employ, and had children, and didn't want to leave his wife and children, then his master was to stand him up against the door post, bore a hole in his ear "with an awl," and after that he was to be a slave forever. See Exodus, xx., 6.

With only ordinary enlightenment such as laymen possess, it would seem, it must be confessed that such an arrangement sounds more like savage Bedouins than like the Ruler of the Universe giving personal direction. However, the layman should study and reflect, but never presume to judge. Who is he that he should have opinions?

A more pleasing, definite, perhaps more reliable prophecy comes from Mr. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. He says that an era of great prosperity is ahead of us. His annual report as secretary of the treasury describes the strong position of trade and industry in the United States. And to make things better, he, Mr. Mellon, is working at tax reforms and economics, the president earnestly encouraging sound economy.

Cleveland Suspect In Bogus War Stamp Conspiracy Held

CLEVELAND, May 4.—Michael la Paglia is under arrest here today on a charge of forging and passing 2,600 counterfeit war saving stamps as a member of the counterfeiting ring which unloosed a flood of spurious stamps in Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Boston several months ago.

According to W. G. Harper, U. S. secret service chief, Paglia received stamps from one of the members of the ring in Chicago and sold them to Biagio Russo and Joseph Zottarelli, a Cleveland attorney, who is now free under heavy bond. Russo and Zottarelli are charged with accepting the stamps at a 25 per cent reduction and selling them at race value.

Columbus Bandits Get $6,300 Loot In Series of "Jobs"

COLUMBUS, May 4.—Hold-up men and safe crackers continued operations in Columbus today, after a series of "jobs" Sunday, the police reported. Robbers secured a total loot of more than $6,300 in cash.

Two masked bandits shortly after daybreak today entered the Waldorf restaurant, in the business section, and forced G. G. Hartman, cashier, to give over $134.75. Part of the loot was taken from the safe. The bandits also emptied Hartman's pockets. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Safe crackers looted the safe of the Colonial Finance company of $2,500 in cash and $15,000 in checks, officials reported to the police. Robbers also broke into the safe of the Freeman-Neff Realty company, but their haul is not known. A total of $160 was reported to have been left in the safe.

RUM CHASERS SHOOT TO KILL

Orders Issued in War Against Liquor Running Fleet.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With orders "to shoot to kill" the greatest "rum chasing" armada ever assembled was preparing a war for extermination today against the liquor running fleet along the northern Atlantic coast.

Sixty vessels tuned to high speed and carrying machine guns were gathered at the coast guard base here awaiting orders to sortie forth and eliminate rum row. Units have been borrowed from other points along the coast.

"We have been instructed to shoot first and investigate afterward," one coast guard officer said. "We'll take them or sink them."

race, the local contest committee today passed a resolution to recommend demotion of one place for Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herbert V. Thaden.

This action is offered in place of that of Major Lambert, who Friday night disqualifed the two aeronauts.

Contest Committee to Act.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 4.—The muddle into which the national elimination balloon race has revolved itself through the action of Major A. B. Lambert, referee, and the counter action of the local contest committee was to be cleared this morning.

The meeting of the committee is to be held. Action is scheduled to be taken on the telegram from Major in which he sets forth the facts in the case and agreed to withdraw the disqualification order from Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herert V. Thaden, provided neither is allowed to place first or second in the race.

At a meeting Saturday night, the contest committee passed a resolution to the effect that Major Lambert apparently acted without authority when he disqualified the balloonists. The committee agreed, however, that they may be penalized.

If Major Lambert's request is acted upon, it will mean that Honeywell, flying the St. Joseph entry, will place third and Thaden's fourth position, will not be changed.

Wollam Travels 600 Miles.

W. T. Van Orman, piloting the Goodyear III bag, apparently has won first place and the Litchfield trophy. He landed at Reform, Alabama, and covered approximately 600 miles. Van Orman's aide was C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, O., boy. Honeywell made the second best distance, landing at Aberdeen, Miss. Should the committee agree to Referee Lambert's request, it will mean that the army balloon S-14, piloted by Lieutenant W. J. Flood, will be placed second, although it did not travel as far as Honeywell's entry. Official announcement of the winners will not be made for several days, Carl H. Wolfley, executive chairman of the race, said this morning.

The announcement will be made by the committee of the National Aeronautical association, after it has checked the logs of the pilots.

The three balloonists flying the greatest distances comprise the team that will represent the United States at Brussels, June 7, in the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup.

Winners Off to Cincinnati.

REFORM, Ala., May 4.—W. T. Van Orman, pilot of the Goodyear III, and C. K. Wollam, his aide, prepared to depart today for Cincinnati after having been notified by Colonel Wolfley, chairman of the National Eliminatic/ Balloon Race committee, that they had won the first prize of $1,000 and the right to represent the United States in the international races at Brussels.

Van Orman made a forced landing here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when his ballast had been exhausted. He had travelled approximately 530 miles on a direct line from St. Joseph, Mo., where the race began at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Flight Uneventful.

The big bag followed a circuitous route, however, and it was estimated by the pilots that they had covered at least 700 miles.

The flight was uneventful, the airmen declared today. The balloon was, equipped with radio sets and its occupants spent much time "listening in" on programs of different broadcasting stations and receiving weather reports.

The Goodyear III and equipment were being packed for shipment to Akron, Ohio, today.

Van Norman and Wollam were winners of the national race from San Antonio, last year.

VON HINDENBURG WILL OCCUPY KAISER'S OLD PALACE

The splendor that once was the palace of the former Kaiser Wilhelm, on the Wilhelmstrasse, in Berlin, has been subdued and converted into the living quarters of the president of the German republic. The art gallery is shown above; below is the royal dining room. The president, however, uses a smaller and less pretentious dining room. Inset are General Von Hindenburg, who defeated Wilhelm Marx (below), in the presidential race.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 4.—The stock market today started in a confident tone and early prices were higher. American Can and other industrial leaders continued the rally inaugurated on Friday and Saturday and moved forward to higher levels. The two leading "summer stocks," Coca Cola and American Ice, exceeded their best previous price records, Coca Cola selling at the highest price in its history.

Oil stocks showed a much better tone, buying of the so-called Independent Oil shares being punctuated by favorable comments on the decline in light crude oil and production and the enormous increase in gasoline consumption. Upward movements continued in a few of the railroad stocks, buying was not as aggressive as in last week's sessions. North American, at the head of the public utilities stocks, spurted to new high prices, while United States Realty led the specialty stock and Sears-Roebuck the mercantile stocks.

The foreign exchanges were steady at the opening, with the exception of French francs and lira, grain prices were higher and cotton reactionary. Call money opened at 4 per cent.

Industrial stocks were freely offered on profit taking at the end of the first hour and the rally in that department of the market appeared to have reached the peak for the time being. Speculative interest then turned to the railroad stocks, which, under the leadership of New York Central and Frisco common, spurted a point or two on heavy buying. New York Central gained 2 points at 118¾, Frisco common was 1⅝ at 77¼, Norfolk and Western, Rock Island, Southern Railway and other active rails sold at new high prices for the current movement.

St. Louis Murder May be Recorded As Unsolved Crime

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—That the murder of Dr. William M. Dillon, prorminent surgeon and an athletic idol of 25 years ago, may be recorded in the voluminous dockets of unsolved crime, was the belief of city and county authorities today as Prosecuting Attorney Mueller prepared to formally reopen the inquest into Dillon's death.

Detectives, prodded by Miller, after 24 hours of investigation centered specifically on the reported threatening telephone calls to Dillon from a prominent west suburban resident, today declared this, the most plausible clue, had collapsed.

"We have proven that Miss Eleanor Lyons, switchboard operator who overheard these calls, is not at all certain of their origin. On close examination her testimony was a mass of conflictions," Detective Sergeant Eugene Martineau, directing the investigation, said.

GASTON MEANS FACES PRISON

U. S. Circuit Court Rules he Must go to Atlanta.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, must serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and pay a fine of $10,000 for conspiring to violate the Volstead Act. The United States circuit court of appeals so decided today when it upheld the verdict handed down by the United States district court before which Means and his so-called secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, were convicted in this city last July.

Means is now out on bail of about $50,000 cash, but may be called upon today or tomorrow to surrender himself on the first conviction.

The conviction, which was upheld today, was obtained on evidence to the effect that Means accepted large sums of money in return for which he promised to use his influence with high officials to get permits for the withdrawal of great quantities of liquor from a distillery in Bronwsville, Pa.

About a half hour earlier in the evening, automobiles driven by Lloyd Stanley, Riverview street, and Denver Green collided just about 200 feet from the scene of the other wreck. Passengers escaped injury, but both cars were badly damaged.

A car owned by Wilbur Cook, Lincoln highway, was sunk in about 15 feet of water in the Ohio river at the foot of Broadway early Sunday morning, when Cook attempted to start it. The driver leaped from the car, escaping a cold bath. When the McElravy Brother's wrecker pulled the machine from the river Sunday afternoon, the top of the car was torn off by the weight of the water.

Jack Boughey, of East End, was fined $100 and costs when he was arraigned Sunday before Mayor Brown, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Boughey was arrested on Erie street by Captain Conley after he is alleged to have sideswiped another automobile and crashed into two trees. His car was badly damaged. He made arrangements to pay his fine.

RE-OPEN NAVAL OIL SCANDAL

Seek Re-indictment of Principals in Teapot Dome Leasing.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Re-indictment of the principals in the naval oil scandal, was asked today of the special grand jury called to investigate the alleged conspiracy in the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves.

Bribery and conspiracy indictments against ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Dohney, and Edward L. Dohney, Jr., recently were quashed on technical grounds when Justice McCoy, of district of Columbia supreme court, held that Oliver E. Pagan, an assistant attorney general, illegally was present in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony.

The bribery charges have been outlawed by the statute of limitations and the government oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, sought only indictments for conspiracy.

The grand juhy is not expected to report until early in June.

"We believe that the safety department would contribute greatly to the safety and convenience of the people if it would give attention to the reasonable enforcement of the present city traffic ordinance and dismiss indefinitely any thought of additional rules. The traffic ordinance, passed by city council last fall and in effect at the present time, is very simple and easily understood. The principal reasons for its adoption by the city were, first, to bring the city's ordinance into conformity with the state traffic code, and, second, to have a city ordinance which would keep money collected in fines in the city treasury rather than turn it over to the state as before."

COOLIDGE HITS RACIAL HATRED

Condemns Religious Prejudice in Extolling American Jews.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Racial hatred and jealousy, particularly that based on religious differences, has no place in the United States today, President Coolidge told an audience of 5,000 people in a Sunday sermon delivered here at the dedication of a new Jewish community center.

The president extolled the record and character of American Jews and praised their participation in the development of the nation.

"Every inheritance of the Jewish people, draws them powerfully to the side of charity, liberty and progress," he said, "and we may be sure they will not desert it."

"The work of spiritual unification is not completed. Factional, sectional, social and political lines of conflict still persist. Despite all experience, society continues to engender the hatreds and jealousies whereof are born domestic strife and international conflict.

"But education and enlightment are breaking the force. Reason is emerging."

Prominent Jewish leaders, including Louis Marshall, of New York, assailed anti-Semetic movements, and particularly denounced Prof. Philip Marshall Brown, of Princeton, whose recent charge that Jews maintained "dual citizenship" recently erupted the convention of the American Society of International Law.

"The very suggestion that we hold a divided allegiance," said Marshall, "is an insult to the memory of the Jews who in every period of American history gladly gave their lives and their possessions for the preservation of this government."

tory that Voltaire won in the Callas case.

Try to attain brevity. Few words, much thought lead to success.

Miss Christobel Pankhurst, formerly an ardent worker for woman suffrage, is now "searching in the Scriptures," as Cromwell used to say. She discovers in an ancient Biblical prophecy signs of a world crash, coming very soon.

She foresees first a federation of all the powers of Europe, one superman at the top. One religion, one kind of education, enormous wealth. The superman will be the reincarnation of "the beast" in Revelation. And then, when everything is nicely fixed, will come the terrific smash. That will be necessary because the superman scheme will be Godless.

You read that and worry a good deal, and then you read what is said by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in London, the profoundly learned clergyman, who ought to know what he is talking about. Dean Inge, discussing a new translation of the Bible, says that the Old Testament merely describes the beliefs of a savage tribe of Bedouins, the earliest Jewish people, and the Rev. Inge adds that modern religious ideas can't be based on those Bedouin theories.

He thinks that a good deal of the Bible should be eliminated, as part of it is not the sort of thing you should read aloud in the family. In fact, his servants were horrified, and asked him to stop when he had read certain parts, even expurgated.

These conflicting opinions of Mrs. Pankhurst and the dean are confusing. You remember reading in the Old Testament about the laws of slavery. It is said that if one of the ancient Jews had a Jewish slave he must let him go free after seven years. Slaves not Jewish remained slaves forever. But if that Jewish slave had married in his master's employ, and had children, and didn't want to leave his wife and children, then his master was to stand him up against the door post, bore a hole in his ear "with an awl," and after that he was to be a slave forever. See Exodus, xx., 6.

With only ordinary enlightenment such as laymen possess, it would seem, it must be confessed that such an arrangement sounds more like savage Bedouins than like the Ruler of the Universe giving personal direction. However, the layman should study and reflect, but never presume to judge. Who is he that he should have opinions?

A more pleasing, definite, perhaps more reliable prophecy comes from Mr. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. He says that an era of great prosperity is ahead of us. His annual report as secretary of the treasury describes the strong position of trade and industry in the United States. And to make things better, he, Mr. Mellon, is working at tax reforms and economics, the president earnestly encouraging sound economy.

Cleveland Suspect In Bogus War Stamp Conspiracy Held

CLEVELAND, May 4.—Michael la Paglia is under arrest here today on a charge of forging and passing 2,600 counterfeit war saving stamps as a member of the counterfeiting ring which unloosed a flood of spurious stamps in Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Boston several months ago.

According to W. G. Harper, U. S. secret service chief, Paglia received stamps from one of the members of the ring in Chicago and sold them to Biagio Russo and Joseph Zottarelli, a Cleveland attorney, who is now free under heavy bond. Russo and Zottarelli are charged with accepting the stamps at a 25 per cent reduction and selling them at race value.

Columbus Bandits Get $6,300 Loot In Series of "Jobs"

COLUMBUS, May 4.—Hold-up men and safe crackers continued operations in Columbus today, after a series of "jobs" Sunday, the police reported. Robbers secured a total loot of more than $6,300 in cash.

Two masked bandits shortly after daybreak today entered the Waldorf restaurant, in the business section, and forced G. G. Hartman, cashier, to give over $134.75. Part of the loot was taken from the safe. The bandits also emptied Hartman's pockets. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Safe crackers looted the safe of the Colonial Finance company of $2,500 in cash and $15,000 in checks, officials reported to the police. Robbers also broke into the safe of the Freeman-Neff Realty company, but their haul is not known. A total of $160 was reported to have been left in the safe.

RUM CHASERS SHOOT TO KILL

Orders Issued in War Against Liquor Running Fleet.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With orders "to shoot to kill" the greatest "rum chasing" armada ever assembled was preparing a war for extermination today against the liquor running fleet along the northern Atlantic coast.

Sixty vessels tuned to high speed and carrying machine guns were gathered at the coast guard base here awaiting orders to sortie forth and eliminate rum row. Units have been borrowed from other points along the coast.

"We have been instructed to shoot first and investigate afterward," one coast guard officer said. "We'll take them or sink them."

race, the local contest committee today passed a resolution to recommend demotion of one place for Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herbert V. Thaden.

This action is offered in place of that of Major Lambert, who Friday night disqualified the two aeronauts.

Contest Committee to Act.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 4.—The muddle into which the national elimination balloon race has revolved itself through the action of Major A. B. Lambert, referee, and the counter action of the local contest committee was to be cleared this morning.

The meeting of the committee is to be held. Action is scheduled to be taken on the telegram from Major in which he sets forth the facts in the case and agreed to withdraw the disqualification order from Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herert V. Thaden, provided neither is allowed to place first or second in the race.

At a meeting Saturday night, the contest committee passed a resolution to the effect that Major Lambert apparently acted without authority when he disqualified the balloonists. The committee agreed, however, that they may be penalized.

If Major Lambert's request is acted upon, it will mean that Honeywell, flying the St. Joseph entry, will place third and Thaden's fourth position, will not be changed.

Wollam Travels 600 Miles.

W. T. Van Orman, piloting the Goodyear III bag, apparently has won first place and the Litchfield trophy. He landed at Reform, Alabama, and covered approximately 600 miles. Van Orman's aide was C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, O., boy. Honeywell made the second best distance, landing at Aberdeen, Miss. Should the committee agree to Referee Lambert's request, it will mean that the army balloon S-14, piloted by Lieutenant W. J. Flood, will be placed second, although it did not travel as far as Honeywell's entry. Official announcement of the winners will not be made for several days, Carl H. Wolfley, executive chairman of the race, said this morning.

The announcement will be made by the committee of the National Aeronautical association, after it has checked the logs of the pilots.

The three balloonists flying the greatest distances comprise the team that will represent the United States at Brussels, June 7, in the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup.

Winners Off to Cincinnati.

REFORM, Ala., May 4.—W. T. Van Orman, pilot of the Goodyear III, and C. K. Wollam, his aide, prepared to depart today for Cincinnati after having been notified by Colonel Wolfley, chairman of the National Eliminatic/ Balloon Race committee, that they had won the first prize of $1,000 and the right to represent the United States in the international races at Brussels.

Van Orman made a forced landing here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when his ballast had been exhausted. He had travelled approximately 530 miles on a direct line from St. Joseph, Mo., where the race began at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Flight Uneventful.

The big bag followed a circuitous route, however, and it was estimated by the pilots that they had covered at least 700 miles.

The flight was uneventful, the airmen declared today. The balloon was equipped with radio sets and its occupants spent much time "listening in" on programs of different broadcasting stations and receiving weather reports.

The Goodyear III and equipment were being packed for shipment to Akron, Ohio, today.

Van Norman and Wollam were winners of the national race from San Antonio, last year.

VON HINDENBURG WILL OCCUPY KAISER'S OLD PALACE

The splendor that once was the palace of the former Kaiser Wilhelm, on the Wilhelmstrasse, in Berlin, has been subdued and converted into the living quarters of the president of the German republic. The art gallery is shown above; below is the royal dining room. The president, however, uses a smaller and less pretentious dining room. Inset are General Von Hindenburg, who defeated Wilhelm Marx (below), in the presidential race.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 4.—The stock market today started in a confident tone and early prices were higher. American Can and other industrial leaders continued the rally inaugurated on Friday and Saturday and moved forward to higher levels. The two leading "summer stocks," Coca Cola and American Ice, exceeded their best previous price records, Coca Cola selling at the highest price in its history.

Oil stocks showed a much better tone, buying of the so-called Independent Oil shares being punctuated by favorable comments on the decline in light crude oil and production and the enormous increase in gasoline consumption. Upward movements continued in a few of the railroad stocks, buying was not as aggressive as in last week's sessions. North American, at the head of the public utilities stocks, spurted to new high prices, while United States Realty led the specialty stock and Sears-Roebuck the mercantile stocks.

The foreign exchanges were steady at the opening, with the exception of French francs and lira, grain prices were higher and cotton reactionary. Call money opened at 4 per cent.

Industrial stocks were freely offered on profit taking at the end of the first hour and the rally in that department of the market appeared to have reached the peak for the time being. Speculative interest then turned to the railroad stocks, which, under the leadership of New York Central and Frisco common, spurted a point or two on heavy buying. New York Central gained 2 points at 118⅞. Frisco common was 1⅞ at 77¼. Norfolk and Western, Rock Island, Southern Railway and other active rails sold at new high prices for the current movement.

automobile. The disabled machines were taken to garages by the McElray Brothers' wrecker.

About a half hour earlier in the evening, automobiles driven by Lloyd Stanley, Riverview street, and Denver Green collided just about 200 feet from the scene of the other wreck. Passengers escaped injury, but both cars were badly damaged.

A car owned by Wilbur Cook, Lincoln highway, was sunk in about 15 feet of water in the Ohio river at the foot of Broadway early Sunday morning, when Cook attempted to start it. The driver leaped from the car, escaping a cold bath. When the McElravy Brother's wrecker pulled the machine from the river Sunday afternoon, the top of the car was torn off by the weight of the water.

Jack Boughey, of East End, was fined $100 and costs when he was arraigned Sunday before Mayor Brown, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Boughey was arrested on Erie street by Captain Conley after he is alleged to have sideswiped another automobile and crashed into two trees. His car was badly damaged. He made arrangements to pay his fine.

ber, this morning received word that New York mail, leaving the metropolis as 10:30 p. m., Eastern standard time, would arrive in Pittsburgh in time to leave there at 8:15 a. m., reaching here at 9:42 o'clock. This arrangement will become operative Thursday morning.

Should this arrangement prove unhold the C. & P. train in Pittsburgh satisfactory, steps will be taken to for five minutes, in order to transfer mail from the "Pittsburgher", crack New York-Pittsburgh express, which arrives in Pittsburgh at 8:15 a. m. just when the C. & P. train is leaving.

According to Mr. Barth, this will be the first time in five years that East Liverpool has been given 12-hour mail service from New York. The plan will be of much assistance to business men and manufacturers.

RE-OPEN NAVAL OIL SCANDAL

Seek Re-indictment of Principals in Teapot Dome Leasing.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Re-indictment of the principals in the naval oil scandal, was asked today of the special grand jury called to investigate the alleged conspiracy in the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves.

Bribery and conspiracy indictments against ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Dohney, and Edward L. Dohney, Jr., recently were quashed on technical grounds when Justice McCoy, of district of Columbia supreme court, held that Oliver E. Pagan, an assistant attorney general, illegally was present in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony.

The bribery charges have been outlawed by the statute of limitations and the government oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, sought only indictments for conspiracy.

The grand juhy is not expected to report until early in June.

ination of traffic tangles that were common in our narrow alleys before they were made one-way.

"We believe that the safety department would contribute greatly to the safety and convenience of the people if it would give attention to the reasonable enforcement of the present city traffic ordinance and dismiss indefinitely any thought of additional rules. The traffic ordinance, passed by city council last fall and in effect at the present time, is very simple and easily understood. The principal reasons for its adoption by the city were, first, to bring the city's ordinance into conformity with the state traffic code, and, second, to have a city ordinance which would keep money collected in fines in the city treasury rather than turn it over to the state as before."

Fire Wisdom

"Fire-prevention Day" called forth this little collection of ripe wisdom from a man who has been member of a city fire department for 50 years and chief of it for more than half that period, and has fought more fires than any other man in America:

"Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels;

"Don't accumulate rubbish anywhere;

"Don't store old bedding;

"Put all dust, sweepings, sawdust and waste paper in metal receptacles;

"Don't store excelsior, barrels, straw and old mattresses in cellars;

"Clean the chimney flue;

"Keep oils, paints, grease and fats outside the house in a metal box;

"Close all holes in floors, walls and ceilings, lest they allow fire, once started, to travel swiftly through the building;

"Clean meat grease from ovens;

"Throw salt on flame in case of fire;

"Learn the nearest fire-alarm box."

It would be a good idea to read this over two or three times to the assembled family and then paste it up where it will be seen frequently.

Old Art Monopoly

"Another old master brought from England." It is an old story. Almost every day now there is a report of some old painting or other art work imported from the Old World.

The older countries are becoming alarmed about it, especially England. There is talk there of putting a prohibitive export tax on art works, or establishing a government fund to buy up such old masterpieces as are in danger of being lost to the country.

It is easy to understand the sentiment of a country, rich in art and proud of its artistic past, as it sees the dissipation of its art treasures. But it is not necessarily a real loss to the Old World to have so many of those works go to America.

Not to mention the money obtained for them, there is the stimulus that may come to new art as the old vanishes. In the presence of great masterpieces, or works that pass as such, the new masters never have a fair chance. If Europe does lose its historic art treasures, a new generation of artists may produce new art as good as the old, or better.

At the same time, America may be losing. The spending of so many millions abroad for works some of which are admittedly great, but many of which owe their valuation only to their name and limited supply, is bad for American art. Our own artists don't get a fair chance.

A Movie School

The announcement that a great moving picture producing company is establishing a school to train its actors indicates a new development in that industry. The school will have a board of directors comprising authors, actors and producers of wide repute. It will seek and train the best talent offering from all parts of North America. It will uphold the ideals of the leaders in this industry—accuracy of detail, artistry in production and wholesomeness in character.

The critical public will be glad to have more artistry used in all phases of picture making. Too often now a poor story has a beautiful setting and is made with perfect photography so that people go to see it regardless of poor acting and negligible story. the combination of a fine drama with good acting and artistic photography is not common.

Perhaps a movie school will improve the screen drama rapidly. Improvement is bound to come from various sources because the possibilities of the moving picture are too great to be forever neglected or misused.

Japanese War Game

The Japanese, too, are going to play at war in the Pacific. Their naval operations may or may not be inspired by the practice work of the United States navy at Hawaii and its voyage to the Philippines and Australia.

The Japanese maneuvers are much more modest than the American. They are represented as in celebration of Admiral Togo's great victory over the Russian fleet, in the war which made Japan a military power. The anniversary comes on May 27. There will be a demonstration of Japan's ability to beat off a hostile armada.

The United States will not protest, officially or unofficially, against any such defensive maneuvers. Either nation is free to maneuver all it wants to, as long as it is not offensive in fact or in manner. The Pacific is big, and offers plenty of room. Both nations are merely having a drill in self-defensive work. Neither, presumably, thinks of attacking the other. Yet it must be admitted that, useful as such operations are from a military point of view, they do not always have a wholesome effect on diplomacy and public opinion. Sincere peace-lovers will welcome the time, if that time ever comes, when even defensive maneuvers are not regarded as necessary.

"Cross-word puzzles," a physician writes, "have been the means of reuniting many families." But no figures are yet available of the families cross words have separated.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 4.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up very betimes and gay as never more at finding myself clear of debt. So with my wife to Sherry's for noon day breakfast which, idiot I am, cost me more than a pound.

Afterward to watch Earl Carroll rehearse a play and a fellow came in for an acting part but had his cheeks painted like a woman's and Earl said "Would you hire him?" and I said "No." Nor would I and he did not and then I worried about it all day.

In the evening to the home of Keats Speed, the Sun editor, for dinner and a gay gathering and Mistress Florence had the best dinner I ever ate and told some mirthless tayles, too, but Keats very glum for the good reason he had that day had eight teeth drawn. Home at midnight and to bed.

To New York's so called Intelligentsia all outside their circle are the dullest of Babbitts. Shey are getting out a weekly journal now which they announce superiorly is not written "for the old lady in Dubuque."

Several times I have attended powwows where they were supposed to be the life of the party—the little rays of sunshine illuminating the gloomy stupidity of other guests.

There is one who recites—always the same droll piece. He feels hurt if he isn't asked. Two others do what their fellows call a "delicious skit over the heads of the mob."

The effort at quick repartee is so stilted it crackles. Carrol Kennicott at the height of her social entertaining career in Gopher Prairie never gave such an exhibition of Babbittry.

One of the important executives of a New York organization was recently dismissed without warning. He was given a year's leave on salary with all expenses paid to Europe or whereever he cared to go. He was dismissed for the old reason he worked too hard. He was first at his office and last to leave. Work obsessed him and he became a slave driver with those in his employ. He could not perfect a smoothly running organization. So the board of directors decided to break up all his contacts. While he doesn't know it at the end of the year another post and an important one will be waiting for him. Overwork at times becomes almost as much of a handicap as laziness.

When I heard this story I began to wonder if I might be getting over zealous. I suggested such a possibility to the man who syndicates my stuff. He laughed heartily and asked me if I knew any more good ones and to close the door going out. I talked it over with my wife and found her later in the bathroom stuffing a towel in her mouth. She was that convulsed. Some people have a silly notion that sitting at a typewriter four hours or so a day is a soft berth. And nothing you can say will change them.

Thew rist watch appears to be going the way of the bicycle. Dealers report that there has been a big slump in sales. Young blades are going in for the thin-as-a-dime watches carried in their weskits without chains.

I suppose spats will be the next to go. That will be just my luck. Just when I get used to wearing them along with a wrist watch without feeling as conspicuous as a carbuncle in a beauty parlor.

Theatre goers are working a new dodge. They have auto license plates from other states and park their cars while the traffic officer isn't looking. Then they go into the theatre. They know it will be impossible to find them. The officer usually changes posts before they return for their cars.

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Bad Boys and Girls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—For a decade, or ever since the World war was well under way, the immoral and unmoral tendencies of the younger generation have provoked comment and criticism from many sources. Ministers, teachers, psychologists, social welfare workers, judges, police officials, parents and grandparents have been alarmed by what they have observed or had reported to them concerning the conduct of boys and girls of high school age, and have asked frequently the question, "What is the world coming to?"

Now comes the committee on character of the New York City Board of Education with an indictment of modern youth that is startling in the extreme. After a year's investigation of moral conditions in the high schools of the metropolis the committee has made a report in which it states bluntly that the school disciplinarian has to deal with almost every conceivable kind of crime.

"He must frequently call upon the police for help," says the committee. "To maintain law and order he needs the training of a detective; he often wishes he had a fingerprint expert, a psycolologist and a psychiatrist."

Thieving, cheating, gambling, lying and forgery are among the crimes or sins common among adolescents, according to this authority. Respect for parents and for duty constituted authority is almost wholly lacking. In fact, practically the only commandment which the youth of the day concern themselves about is the ultra-modern one, "Thou shalt not be caught or found out!"

It is admitted that this characterization does not apply to the whole high school student body, but at the same time the assertion is made that it does apply to "a large percentage of our boys and girls" who have "adopted the code of the street because they have never learned a higher code of morals."

Anything is all right "if you can get away with it," according to this code. Copying home work is entirely honorable if one is not caught. Cutting classes is to be commended if one can "get by." Forging the signature of a parent or guardian to an excuse of a report is a simple way of saving a lot of trouble—unless one is found out. Thieving is a matter of almost daily occurrence, cheating is no disgrace if the offender is not detected, and gambling — especially crapshooting—is an ordinary pastime among the boys.

Moral Instruction Needed.

These investigators confirm a charge frequently made to the effect that at present the church, as a direct moral agency, touches the lives of only a small proportion of the young people, and they add that those who teach in New York city know too well how sadly lacking is the moral influence in many homes today and know that in many homes the parent is no longer the controlling and directing influence.

"In the face of these facts," says the report, "this committee believes that there is urgent need of moral instruction in the high schools. We must give definite, positive instruction as to questions of right and wrong. The school programs must provide an opportunity for frank discussions of matters of conduct and behavior. The aim should be to develop clear-cut conceptions of positive virtues, to present the principles of right living that will govern boys and girls in making moral decisions, rather than to stress the negative, 'Thou shalt not.'"

This means a radical change in the educational policy which has heretofore stressed intellectual attainment as the chief aim while relegating character-building and training for citizenship to the background. A proposed plan to excuse children from school in regular hours to attend church schools for religious instruction is, however, opposed by the committee. Specific recommendations as to the work that should be undertaken in high schools include:

The formation and adoption by students of ethical codes and their use as the sanction of school collective opinion for standards of right.

The use of sections and general assemblies for instructional and inspirational work in character education.

The training of students in responsibility for standards of conduct, manners and taste, through student organizations.

The use of citizenship, or character ratings on the permanent records and on the reports to parents.

Discipline, based on sympathetic understanding, with attempt to change student's attitude. Services of psychologists for better understanding of abnormal pupils.

Sympathetic co-operation with the home and with welfare agencies.

Revision of wording on diplomas to include both character and scholarship qualifications.

Emphasis on demands of colleges and business firms for credentials of good character.

That the position of dean be established in high schools, for direction of character education.

High Schools in Other Cities.

A cosmopolitan high school is a cross-section of the great city itself, including every element of society, every race, every color, every creed, says the committee. This suggests the question as to whether the New York city high schools constitute a cross-section of the high schools of the United States as a whole, and whether the conditions found in the survey made in that city reflect conditions existing throughout the country.

No nation-wide study of the subject has been made and leaders in national educational affairs are reluctant to express opinions on the subject. However, it is in evidence that high school students in other cities are exhibiting wayward tendencies quite similar to those charged against the youth of New York.

Quite recently a group of high school boys in another eastern city were caught with a stolen automobile. Upon investigation it developed that these same boys had stolen more than 40 cars before they were apprehended. They claimed that they had only taken them for "joy-riding" purposes and there was no proof that they had ever attempted to profit by their thefts through selling or trading the machines.

In another city, a druggist whose store was looted in the immediate vicinity of a large high school was arrested on a charge of selling liquor to students, both boys and girls, and his license was revoked. Later the druggist appeared to have ventured into a straight bootlegging business, for his store was raided by prohibition enforcement officers and a large supply of whisky and gin was confiscated.

The inference is that there must have been a considerable amount of drinking among the high school students to have tempted this business man into flagrant law violation.

Fortunate the bad element, while a large percentage, constitutes but a fractional part of the high school population, says the New York committee. "The rest are interesting young people to know and work with, full of enthusiasm and energy and responsive to leadership. It is true that some of them are loud, ill mannered and over confident. Others are of the flapper type, with the bobbed locks and ever-ready mirror, rouge and powder puff. But this is only the exterior representation of their environment. They are, in reality, warm-hearted, generous-minded and remarkably loyal in their devotion to an ideal to which they are pledged."

Fire Wisdom

"Fire-prevention Day" called forth this little collection of ripe wisdom from a man who has been member of a city fire department for 50 years and chief of it for more than half that period, and has fought more fires than any other man in America:

"Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels;

"Don't accumulate rubbish anywhere;

"Don't store old bedding;

"Put all dust, sweepings, sawdust and waste paper in metal receptacles;

"Don't store excelsior, barrels, straw and old mattresses in cellars;

"Clean the chimney flue;

"Keep oils, paints, grease and fats outside the house in a metal box;

"Close all holes in floors, walls and ceilings, lest they allow fire, once started, to travel swiftly through the building;

"Clean meat grease from ovens;

"Throw salt on flame in case of fire;

"Learn the nearest fire-alarm box."

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Bad Boys and Girls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—For a decade, or ever since the World war was well under way, the immoral and unmoral tendencies of the younger generation have provoked comment and criticism from many sources. Ministers, teachers, psychologists, social welfare workers, judges, police officials, parents and grandparents have been alarmed by what they have observed or had reported to them concerning the conduct of boys and girls of high school age, and have asked frequently the question, "What is the world coming to?"

Now comes the committee on character of the New York City Board of Education with an indictment of modern youth that is startling in the extreme. After a year's investigation of moral conditions in the high schools of the metropolis the committee has made a report in which it states bluntly that the school disciplinarian has to deal with almost every conceivable kind of crime.

"He must frequently call upon the police for help," says the committee. "To maintain law and order he needs the training of a detective; he often wishes he had a fingerprint expert, a psycolologist and a psychiatrist."

Thieving, cheating, gambling, lying and forgery are among the crimes or sins common among adolescents, according to this authority. Respect for parents and for duty constituted authority is almost wholly lacking. In fact, practically the only commandment which the youth of the day concern themselves about is the ultra-modern one, "Thou shalt not be caught or found out!"

It is admitted that this characterization does not apply to the whole high school student body, but at the same time the assertion is made that it does apply to "a large percentage of our boys and girls" who have "adopted the code of the street because they have never learned a higher code of morals."

Anything is all right "if you can get away with it," according to this code. Copying home-work is entirely honorable if one is not caught. Cutting classes is to be commended if one can "get by." Forging the signature of a parent or guardian to an excuse of a report is a simple way of saving a lot of trouble—unless one is found out. Thieving is a matter of almost daily occurrence, cheating is no disgrace if the offender is not detected, and gambling — especially crapshooting—is an ordinary pastime among the boys.

Moral Instruction Needed.

These investigators confirm a charge frequently made to the effect that at present the church, as a direct moral agency, touches the lives of only a small proportion of the young people, and they add that those who teach in New York city know too well how sadly lacking is the moral influence in many homes today and know that in many homes the parent is no longer the controlling and directing influence.

"In the face of these facts," says the report, "this committee believes that there is urgent need of moral instruction in the high schools. We must give definite, positive instruction as to questions of right and wrong. The school programs must provide an opportunity for frank discussions of matters of conduct and behavior. The aim should be to develop clear-cut conceptions of positive virtues, to present the principles of right living that will govern boys and girls in making moral decisions, rather than to stress the negative, 'Thou shalt not.'"

This means a radical change in the educational policy which has heretofore stressed intellectual attainment as the chief aim while relegating character-building and training for citizenship to the background. A proposed plan to excuse children from school in regular hours to attend church schools for religious instruction is, however, opposed by the committee. Specific recommendations as to the work that should be undertaken in high schools include:

The formation and adoption by students of ethical codes and their use as the sanction of school collective opinion for standards of right.

The use of sections and general assemblies for instructional and inspirational work in character education.

The training of students in responsibility for standards of conduct, manners and taste, through student organizations.

The use of citizenship, or character, ratings on the permanent records and on the reports to parents.

Discipline, based on sympathetic understanding, with attempt to change student's attitude. Services of psychologists for better understanding of abnormal pupils.

Sympathetic co operation with the home and with welfare agencies.

Revision of wording on diplomas to include both character and scholarship qualifications.

Emphasis on demands of colleges and business firms for credentials of good character.

That the position of dean be established in high schools, for direction of character education.

High Schools in Other Cities.

A cosmopolitan high school is a cross-section of the great city itself, including every element of society, every race, every color, every creed, says the committee. This suggests the question as to whether the New York city high schools constitute a cross-section of the high schools of the United States as a whole, and whether the conditions found in the survey made in that city reflect conditions existing throughout the country.

No nation-wide study of the subject has been made and leaders in national educational affairs are reluctant to express opinions on the subject. However, it is in evidence that high school students in other cities are exhibiting wayward tendencies quite similar to those charged against the youth of New York.

Quite recently a group of high school boys in another eastern city were caught with a stolen automobile. Upon investigation it developed that these same boys had stolen more than 40 cars before they were apprehended. They claimed that they had only taken them for "joy-riding" purposes and there was no proof that they had ever attempted to profit by their thefts through selling or trading the machines.

In another city, a druggist whose store was looted in the immediate vicinity of a large high school was arrested on a charge of selling liquor to students, both boys and girls, and his license was revoked. Later the druggist appeared to have ventured into a straight bootlegging business, for his store was raided by prohibition enforcement officers and a large supply of whisky and gin was confiscated.

The inference is that there must have been a considerable amount of drinking among the high school students to have tempted this business man into flagrant law violation.

Fortunate the bad element, while a large percentage, constitutes but a fractional part of the high school population, says the New York committee. "The rest are interesting young people to know and work with, full of enthusiasm and energy and responsive to leadership. It is true that some of them are loud, ill mannered and over confident. Others are of the flapper type, with the bobbed locks and ever-ready mirror, rouge and powder puff. But this is only the exterior representation of their environment. They are, in reality, warm-hearted, generous-minded and remarkably loyal in their devotion to an ideal to which they are pledged."

HAPPY DAYTONIAN NOW BROADCASTING ADVICE

It's unfortunate that Mrs. Ida E. Sodders, 211 Fillmore street, Dayton, Ohio, does not possess a radio broadcasting apparatus, as she would no doubt be engaged at this time in broadcasting the merits of Ka-di-ok, the wonderful herbal stomach tonic and system toner, throughout the land, instead of being confined to telling all her friends about what it did for her. Mrs. Sodders was a sufferer for over two years with general debility, loss of appetite, very nervous and worn-out, constipated, smothering pains about the heart causing her occasional fainting spells, loss of sleep, and severe headaches. Acting upon advice from friends, she procured Ka-di-ok and began taking that medicine. To the Ka-di-ok representative, several days ago, she made this statement: "It's the only medicine that puts me on my feet, and Kadi-ok did it quickly. It acts like magic and does the work well, and, I believe, for good. If I could reach all my suffering friends, I would tell them of the wonderful Ka-di-ok."

Mrs. Ida Sodders

Any druggist will show you Ka-di-ok, and if your ailments are enumerated on the bottle, better get one and start today on the right road to health.

Miss Helen Baker, of Washington, Pa., the house guest of Miss Kathryn Vodrey, was a special guest.

The informal hours were spent with music, games and "stunts."

This was the final meeting of the club year. The fall sessions will open during October.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy, treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

Mrs. Sodders was a sufferer for over two years with general debility, loss of appetite, very nervous and worn-out, constipated, smothering pains about the heart causing her occasional fainting spells, loss of sleep, and severe headaches. Acting upon advice from friends, she procured Ka-di-ok and began taking that medicine. To the Ka-di-ok representative, several days ago, she made this statement: "It's the only medicine that puts me on my feet, and Kadi-ok did it quickly. It acts like magic and does the work well, and, I believe, for good. If I could reach all my suffering friends, I would tell them of the wonderful Ka-di-ok."

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

Chinese Women Take Steps to Win Back Culinary Reputation

SHANGHAI, China, May—The best cooks in China are men. This is an acknowledged fact, but the 'new women" of Canton, stung by forced admission of their inferiority in the culinary arts, are taking steps to remedy the condition.

Recently a group of cantonese women opened a restaurant. Notwithstanding the fact that every member of the staff, from manager to waitress was a woman, they found it necessary, after a few days' trial and disappointment with feminine cooks, to engage a mere man to shuffle the skillets and pans.

The Women's Rights Association of Canton now plans to open a cooking school for women; a six months' course in the preparation of all Chinese dishes will be given to a limited class of thirty.

DRY RAIDS IN BROOKE COUNTY

Eleven Persons Arrested by Federal and County Officers.

Brooke county was the scene of a number of liquor raids during the week-end when federal, county and Wellsburg police officials swooped down on places in various sections. Six men and five women were arrested and a large quantity of whisky and home brew confiscated. At a negro dance in a hotel north of Fifth and Charles streets, Wellsburg, officers searched the attendants and found seven quarts of moonshine in the possession of three women and three men. They were Ada Williams, Geneva Jefferson, Jennie Clark, R. W. Williams, Dennis Smith and Charles Williams. The six were removed to the county jail and will be arraigned before Squire A. B. Collett on charges of possessing liquor. This raid was made by Deputy Prohibition Commissioner Alonzo Prince, Sheriff Robert M. Lowe and his forces, and the Wellsburg police.

An hour later county and federal officers went to McKinleyville by auto and uncovered a home brewing plant that was apparently operating on a large scale. In house No. 8 of the mining settlement, they found 350 quarts of beer and 50 gallons of mash, all of which was destroyed with the exception of the necessary evidence. Nick Kalatis and Helen Lorry were arrested, but the woman was later released when the former claimed ownership of the illicit beverage. Kalatis is being held in the county jail, awaiting a hearing.

County officers alone, under the direction of Sheriff Lowe, went to Beech Bottom and raided an old mine settlement near Short Creek. One gallon and a half of moonshine was seized and two negroes were arrested. The pair said they were Pearl Jayner and John Crowden, the latter only a boy of 17 years. Both were taken to the county jail.

The last raid was an invasion of Follansbee by federal and county authorities, when they confiscated whisky and wine in the home of Frank Ciccarelli on Virginia avenue. The liquor was concealed in a hidden cellar that was located only after a long search. Ciccarelli was arrested and will likely be arraigned for a hearing today.

DRY RAIDS IN BROOKE COUNTY

Eleven Persons Arrested by Federal and County Officers.

Brooke county was the scene of a number of liquor raids during the week-end when federal, county and Wellsburg police officials swooped down on places in various sections. Six men and five women were arrested and a large quantity of whisky and home brew confiscated. At a negro dance in a hotel north of Fifth and Charles streets, Wellsburg, officers searched the attendants and found seven quarts of moonshine in the possession of three women and three men. They were Ada Williams, Geneva Jefferson, Jennie Clark, R. W. Williams, Dennis Smith and Charles Williams. The six were removed to the county jail and will be arraigned before Squire A. B. Collett on charges of possessing liquor. This raid was made by Deputy Prohibition Commissioner Alonzo Prince, Sheriff Robert M. Lowe and his forces, and the Wellsburg police.

An hour later county and federal officers went to McKinleyville by auto and uncovered a home brewing plant that was apparently operating on a large scale. In house No. 8 of the mining settlement, they found 350 quarts of beer and 50 gallons of mash, all of which was destroyed with the exception of the necessary evidence. Nick Kalatis and Helen Lorry were arrested, but the woman was later released when the former claimed ownership of the illicit beverage. Kalatis is being held in the county jail, awaiting a hearing.

County officers alone, under the direction of Sheriff Lowe, went to Beech Bottom and raided an old mine settlement near Short Creek. One gallon and a half of moonshine was seized and two negroes were arrested. The pair said they were Pearl Jayner and John Crowden, the latter only a boy of 17 years. Both were taken to the county jail.

The last raid was an invasion of Follansbee by federal and county authorities, when they confiscated whisky and wine in the home of Frank Ciccarelli on Virginia avenue. The liquor was concealed in a hidden cellar that was located only after a long search. Ciccarelli was arrested and will likely be arraigned for a hearing today.

MASONIC TEMPLE DEDICATED WITH FITTING CEREMONIES

Grand Lodge Officers Take Part in Exercises —Attend Services in Presbyterian Church— Parade and Band Concert Held.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., instituted January 21, 1922, dedicated its new temple, East Lincoln way, Sunday afternoon, and because of the presence of the grand officers of Ohio, the event is considered the outstanding event in the Masonic history of Columbiana county.

It is recalled that this is the first time in the history of Ohio that a session of the grand lodge officers was ever held in Columbiana county, and also it was the first time that the grand officers ever attended a Sunday service in a body. Both of these events now go to the credit of Columbiana county.

For many weeks officers and various committees of New Lisbon lodge No. 65 have been arranging for the dedicatory service. Every detail that was necessary to handle a large crowd was taken into consideration, with the result not an incident happened on Sunday to mar the event—except a shower following the parade.

Shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday morning a caravan of motor cars went to Salem to carry the officers of the Grand Lodge, members of Clifton lodge of Cleveland, the escort of the Grand Lodge officers and the drum corps of Holy Grail Commandery of Lakewood on to Lisbon. Two special coaches had been attached to the Pittsburgh-Cleveland flyer arriving at Salem at 9:50 o'clock.

As soon as the caravan returned to Lisbon, a brief period was offered for registration in the Masonic temple, and then headed by Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl of Cleveland all Masons in Lisbon attended the morning service at the Lisbon Presbyterian church. So great was the crowd that the entire main auditorium of the church at Market and Chestnut street was reserved for the guests of the congregation. Members of the church and other visitors occupied seats in the Sunday school room. Scores remained standing throughout the service.

Taking his text from I Kings 7-13, "And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre," the Rev. P. W. Macauley said in part:

"Hiram of Tyre was the king's choice of all men with whom he came in contact. He gave Hiram the most intricate work to perform. Hiram was a widow's son. His father was a worker in brass. He met every requirement. In this chapter of I Kings you will read how he finished the temple which required 13 years to build and how well he did his work. To be known as the widow's son would today prove to be a poor introduction, but this widow's son had the ability to work and the willingness to do. He was an ideal man, and what a wonderful temple he built for the king. We're crowning the king more and more today than ever before, the king for whom Solomon builded a temple.

"In our history we find that Lincoln, called from the back woods was a Hiram fetched out of Tyre. It's a case where God never makes a mistake when He calls a man to perform a task. He called Hiram of Tyre, the widow's son. What a poor introduction? But Hiram was a man of skill. In God's way of looking for a man, there is no scanning of parental history. Lincoln was the king's choice. The king's choice was Woodrow Wilson; the king's choice was Warren G. Harding—men who gave their lives for their country. What God wants is the man, when building a temple today. You men came here today to dedicate a temple. No matter where we go we build a temple. We want the Hirams to get back of the building of God's temple. Now you get this: The temple made Hiram, not Hiram the temple. It's just as true today as it was then. The church of God and the cause of christianity needs the builder—and the builder needs the church which is founded upon christianity.

"A man's unseen temple is his soul. Let us all be ready for the King when he sends for Hiram out of Tyre."

The anthem, "Open the Gates of the Temple," was sang by Miss Mary Albright.

At the close of this service, many of the Grand Lodge officers were entertained by friends in Lisbon, while members of Clifton lodge were entertained at dinner as the guests of New Lisbon lodge in the ball room of the Knights of Pythias lodge, the Pythian Sisters being in charge.

Promptly at 1:15 o'clock the Presbyterian band of Lisbon gave a 30-minute concert in the public square.

Knight Templars from Salem, Canton, Alliance, headed by the Grotto drum corps and trumpets of Canton and the Alliance Concert band formed in parade on the county fair grounds. When these commanderies marched east on Chestnut street, other blue lodge members followed, also Harding chapter De Molay of East Liverpool.

Close to 1,200 members of the Masonic fraternity were in line and it required 30 minutes for the parade to pass a given point. A line of march about two and one half miles was covered.

With the parade over, Grand Lodge officers and their escort entered the new Masonic temple, and the ritualistic dedicatory services followed, closing at 5:45 o'clock.

A survey made by traffic officers discloses that upwards of 3,000 machines entered Lisbon between 9 o'clock and 6 o'clock Sunday evening, and at the fair ground the number of cars was not unlike the sight of a fair day.

Among the visiting Masons registering in Lisbon Sunday were Samuel Boston, Kirksville, Mo.; John E. Garrod, Bronx, New York; Fred W. Barr and Gordon, London, Ontario, Canada. The registration sheets also disclose that the entire northeastern Ohio Masonic jurisdiction was represented.

Family night will be observed by the members of New Lisbon lodge tonight.

The annual inspection of this lodge will take place Tuesday night, which will be preceded by dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Ivy Chapter No. 311, Eastern Star, will have full charge of the dedication week services Wednesday night.

"The Spaniard," Big Photoplay, Feature At Ceramic Theatre

The Paramount picture, "The Spaniard," which will be shown three days, starting today, at the Ceramic theater, is a story of a bull-fighter, hero of Spain, and an English society girl, a born coquette, always looking for new hearts to conquer. She meets and fascinates the Spaniard, who, however, warns her that he does not intend to be just another of her victims and that he is going to conquer her.

Ricardo Cortez plays the title role. Jetta Goudal is Dolores. Noah Beery completes the trio of featured players.

Dolores pays a visit to relatives in Seville and while there attends a bull fight, where she recognizes the matador as the Spaniard, Don Pedro and congratulates herself that she did not accept a common bull-fighter as a husband.

An excursion to a Moorish castle in the mountains near Seville proves a trap. Dolores, seeking shelter from a storm, walks right into a castle, the owner of which proves to be Don Pedro. He holds her a prisoner in the hopes of making her change her mind about marrying him, but it only tends to make the girl more furious.

The Spaniard is a firm believer in cave man tactics in taming his women, but he finds they don't work with Dolores. He undergoes a change of heart and consents to take the girl out horseback riding. Dolores makes use of this opportunity to escape by slashing the Spaniard's horse across the flank and dashing madly cross-country, right into a bandit hangout.

How she fares with the cut-throats, how the Spaniard finally effects her rescue and wins her love, makes "The Spaniard" one of the season's most highly entertaining productions.

MASONIC TEMPLE DEDICATED WITH FITTING CEREMONIES

Grand Lodge Officers Take Part in Exercises —Attend Services in Presbyterian Church— Parade and Band Concert Held.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., instituted January 21, 1922, dedicated its new temple, East Lincoln way, Sunday afternoon, and because of the presence of the grand officers of Ohio, the event is considered the outstanding event in the Masonic history of Columbiana county.

It is recalled that this is the first time in the history of Ohio that a session of the grand lodge officers was ever held in Columbiana county, and also it was the first time that the grand officers ever attended a Sunday service in a body. Both of these events now go to the credit of Columbiana county.

For many weeks officers and various committees of New Lisbon lodge No. 65 have been arranging for the dedicatory service. Every detail that was necessary to handle a large crowd was taken into consideration, with the result not an incident happened on Sunday to mar the event—except a shower following the parade.

Shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday morning a caravan of motor cars went to Salem to carry the officers of the Grand Lodge, members of Clifton lodge of Cleveland, the escort of the Grand Lodge officers and the drum corps of Holy Grail Commandery of Lakewood on to Lisbon. Two special coaches had been attached to the Pittsburgh-Cleveland flyer arriving at Salem at 9:50 o'clock.

As soon as the caravan returned to Lisbon, a brief period was offered for registration in the Masonic temple, and then headed by Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl of Cleveland all Masons in Lisbon attended the morning service at the Lisbon Presbyterian church. So great was the crowd that the entire main auditorium of the church at Market and Chestnut street was reserved for the guests of the congregation. Members of the church and other visitors occupied seats in the Sunday school room. Scores remained standing throughout the service.

Taking his text from I Kings 7-13, "And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre," the Rev. P. W. Macauley said in part:

"Hiram of Tyre was the king's choice of all men with whom he came in contact. He gave Hiram the most intricate work to perform. Hiram was a widow's son. His father was a worker in brass. He met every requirement. In this chapter of I Kings you will read how he finished the temple which required 13 years to build and how well he did his work. To be known as the widow's son would today prove to be a poor introduction, but this widow's son had the ability to work and the willingness to do. He was an ideal man, and what a wonderful temple he built for the king. We're crowning the king more and more today than ever before, the king for whom Solomon builded a temple.

"In our history we find that Lincoln, called from the back woods was a Hiram fetched out of Tyre. It's a case where God never makes a mistake when He calls a man to perform a task. He called Hiram of Tyre, the widow's son. What a poor introduction? But Hiram was a man of skill. In God's way of looking for a man, there is no scanning of parental history. Lincoln was the king's choice. The king's choice was Woodrow Wilson; the king's choice was Warren G. Harding—men who gave their lives for their country. What God wants is the man, when building a temple today. You men came here today to dedicate a temple. No matter where we go we build a temple. We want the Hirams to get back of the building of God's temple. Now you get this: The temple made Hiram, not Hiram the temple. It's just as true today as it was then. The church of God and the cause of christianity needs the builder—and the builder needs the church which is founded upon christianity.

"A man's unseen temple is his soul. Let us all be ready for the King when he sends for Hiram out of Tyre."

The anthem, "Open the Gates of the Temple," was sang by Miss Mary Albright.

At the close of this service, many of the Grand Lodge officers were entertained by friends in Lisbon, while members of Clifton lodge were entertained at dinner as the guests of New Lisbon lodge in the hall room of the Knights of Pythias lodge, the Pythian Sisters being in charge.

Promptly at 1:15 o'clock the Presbyterian band of Lisbon gave a 30-minute concert in the public square.

Knight Templars from Salem, Canton, Alliance, headed by the Grotto drum corps and trumpets of Canton and the Alliance Concert band formed in parade on the county fair grounds. When these commanderies marched east on Chestnut street, other blue lodge members followed, also Harding chapter De Molay of East Liverpool.

Close to 1,200 members of the Masonic fraternity were in line and it required 30 minutes for the parade to pass a given point. A line of march about two and one half miles was covered.

With the parade over, Grand Lodge officers and their escort entered the new Masonic temple, and the ritualistic dedicatory services followed, closing at 5:45 o'clock.

A survey made by traffic officers discloses that upwards of 3,000 machines entered Lisbon between 9 o'clock and 6 o'clock Sunday evening, and at the fair ground the number of cars was not unlike the sight of a fair day.

Among the visiting Masons registering in Lisbon Sunday were Samuel Boston, Kirksville, Mo.; John E. Garrod, Bronx, New York; Fred W. Barr and Gordon, London, Ontario, Canada. The registration sheets also disclose that the entire northeastern Ohio Masonic jurisdiction was represented.

Family night will be observed by the members of New Lisbon lodge tonight.

The annual inspection of this lodge will take place Tuesday night, which will be preceded by dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Ivy Chapter No. 311, Eastern Star, will have full charge of the dedication week services Wednesday night.

Nature Renews Life In The Spring

No Need for You to Drag Around Half Sick Now

World's Tonic Will Put You Up to Enjoyment of Life.

Thousands of people are miserable every Spring. They think they have "Spring fever," and many of them have come to believe they must go through just so much misery every Spring.

Now what ails people like this is that their blood is full of poison, which in turn has come from the colds, confinements and rich foods of winter. Often the colds leave an inflammation of the membranes of the nose and throat that develops into catarrh. Such people feel tired all the time. They want to hang around the fire or bask in the sun. Their food doesn't taste good, and they haven't any energy.

Cheer up, old friend! What you need is a good medicine that will do three things; First, clear our your system, helping nature to get rid of all waste. Second, purify your blood and help nature enrich it. Third, correct the catarrhal condition before it gets serious.

Thousands of people depend on World's Tonic every spring. With it they literally make themselves over, recovering energy, getting hich blood that fills them with ambition, and stores up an abundance of the vim and zest that make life worth living.

Don't drag around any more. Get a bottle of World's Tonic at Carnahan's drug store or of any reliable druggist. You will neve regret the dollar it costs you.

City Industrial Baseball League Clubs In Auspicious Opening

Auto Parade Precedes Lid Lifter; Three Fast Games Are Dished Up

Chester, Wellsville and K. T. K. are Winners as Six Clubs Begin Race for Honors.

With three games and following a automobile parade that wended its way through the business section of East Liverpool the City Industrial league opened amid auspicious circumstances Saturday afternoon.

At Chester the home team defeated Laughlin 9 to 2, Wellsville won from Babcock and Wilcox, 7 to 6, while K. T. K. trounced Trotter-Chevrolet, 9 to 6.

Led by the City band and preceded by Captain Mason Conley and Officers James Haley, William Lister and Chester Smith and followed by President C. C. Cline in a closed car with other devotees of the game, the automobiles traversed Broadway, Sixth and Fifth from and to the City library.

Dividing to their playing fields at Klondyke, Chester and Wellsville the assigned clubs began their playing at 3:30 o'clock.

The City band proceeded to Klondyke, where it dispensed music during the contest. There Mayor Brown, of East Liverpool, gave the league officials prestige by his presence, as did Mayor Frank Riley, of Chester, in the latter city.

At Chester the crowd was well cared for by Chief Brady Seevers, thus enabling the play to be witnessed by all in attendance. The new field was singularly dry despite the recent rain following a hurried scraping, making fast play possible.

Despite the cool atmosphere a large crowd witnessed the K. T. K. game with the Trotter-Chevrolet club which had been transferred from Patterson field because of the Salineville-East Liverpool field meet there.

K. T. K. finally won, 9 to 6, though Trotters led for three innings, by one run.

Sanior allowed nine hits which he kept well scattered. R. Pollock was succeeded by Barr in the fourth inning after the bases had been filled and a run forced in. Both Sanior and R. Pollock were wild.

A. Bayley led in hitting with three hits, two doubles and a single in five times up. Herbert hit timely as did Simcox. Sainor likewise singled with the bases full. Sothern and C. Coleman contributed star catches.

Several hundred fans, huddling together in close formation to nullify the cold breeze that blew over Smith field saw the snappy Chester team run away from the fast Homer Laughlin club, of Newell, in the initial City Industrial league contest on their home lot Saturday afternoon. The score was 9 to 2.

M. Cebula, the speedy young West Virginia twirler, held the pottery contingent to four hits. He struck out 13 men and had two doubles besides a flashy fielding play that saved a run.

M. Cebula whiffed every one of his opponents except Reese, who singled in his only batting appearance, and McGeehan, who walked twice in three efforts. W. Munday breezed twice, once with the bags full and the second with two on. Mal Myers led off in the fourth with a strike out, while Reardon suffered thrice in five tries.

Reese was taken out in the fourth when a single, two fielder choices following an error had clogged the paths. He passed C. Marshall, thus enabling P. Cebula to score the first run of the game.

Five runs resulted ere McGeehan retired the side. Three hits, one a double, gave Chester two more in the fifth, while an error by Myers and M. Cebula's second double, resulted in Rector's scoring in the eighth.

McGeehan, walking in the fifth, finished on a couple of errors, while Watson, safe on P. Cedula's miscue in the seventh, was forced home after the bases had been filled by another walk and single.

Rector and P. Bennett showed some fancy fielding in the ninth when three long drives reached their territory.

KENTUCKY DERBY FIELD IS LARGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—A field of about 20 is the prospect at present for the fifty-first running of the Kentucky derby. That may be whittled down considerably before post time a week from next Saturday, or—what is more unlikely—the great classic may draw to the barrier from the 139 nominations for the race several which today seem certain to start because they don't look to have the remotest outside chance.

The course of events in racing at various tracks and in workouts here and elsewhere this week and early next will tip the scale of judgment concerning some eligible candidate in many an owner's mind. That is what will decide with him whether it is worth while to pay the $500 starting fee.

OLD TIME STARS WITH MINORS

Veterans of Yesteryear Find Havens in Class A A. Teams.

NEW YORK, May 4. — Where are the stars of yesterday? asked the great bard, and echo answers where? A fortunate few retire to a life of ease and re-go into various small businesses, some of which make money. But the vast majority find a haven in some minor league, getting by on what they know, if anything. Sooner or later, Age, the inevitable, overtakes them and then—oblivion. They can't all be Joe McGinnitys, pitching winning baseball at 52.

Some of them, however, last an unconscionable time. Take the case of Beals Becker, for example. Beals was in the majors some 17 years ago and since passing down below has been one of the leading hitters of the Class AA leagues. He is doing nicely right now with Seattle. On the same club is Jim Bagby, who topped the American league pitchers as late as 1920.

Old Timers.

Not far away, at Sacramento, is Ray Keating, a Yankee pitcher of the pre-Chance era; Merlin Kopp, with the Athletics eight years ago, and Bob Schang, brother of Wally and once with the Giants. At San Francisco you will find Jeff Pfeffer, Pete Kilduff and Sam Agnew, to say nothing of Archie Yelle, Tim Hendryx, another old-time Yankee, and Frank Brower.

Ferdie Schupp, who left handed the National league silly in 1917-18, is with Kansas City in the American Association. So is Dr. John Lavan, Jimmy Zinn, Frank Ellerbe and several others.

Frank Gilhooley, another Yankee favorite of other days, is with Toronto, of the International league.

More Stars.

Down below we find Harry Courtney, ex-Senator; Hugh Bedient, star of the 1912 world series while with the Boston Red Sox; "Red" Smith, ex-Dodger and ex-Brave; Wilbur Good, Paul Fittery and Bert Niehoff teamed up on the Atlanta Crackers with several recent major league discards, identity unimportant.

Ray Caldwell, one of the best pitchers of a decade, when right, which was seldom, is with Little Rock. So is Hod Eller, the shine baller who fanned six white Sox in a row, establising a world series record in 1919.

Larry Kopf, Red shortstop in the same series, is another Little Rock asset, and right alongside of him is Russell Blackburne, whose $12,000 purchase by the White Sox years ago startled the baseball world of that time.

These are only a few of the many. Like bootleggers, the ex-stars are all over.

Six million square feet of window glass made in Belgium is to be shipped to the Pacific Coast of this country.

Becomes An All-Pullman Train —No Day Coaches

Because of the very heavy patronage given "The Pan-American" by through or long distance travelers, it has been found necessary to provide further Pullman accommodations and to eliminate the day coaches (except between Memphis and Bowling Green.) With this change, the train will be equipped with brand-new cars, specially built for it, providing the last word in travel comfort. In the panels on the left are shown some of the luxuries which will be provided.

City Industrial Baseball League Clubs In Auspicious Opening

Auto Parade Precedes Lid Lifter; Three Fast Games Are Dished Up

Chester, Wellsville and K. T. K. are Winners as Six Clubs Begin Race for Honors.

With three games and following a automobile parade that wended its way through the business section of East Liverpool the City Industrial league opened amid auspicious circumstances Saturday afternoon.

At Chester the home team defeated Laughlin 9 to 2, Wellsville won from Babcock and Wilcox, 7 to 6, while K. T. K. trounced Trotter-Chevrolet, 9 to 6.

Led by the City band and preceded by Captain Mason Conley and Officers James Haley, William Lister and Chester Smith and followed by President C. C. Cline in a closed car with other devotees of the game, the automobiles traversed Broadway, Sixth and Fifth from and to the City library.

Dividing to their playing fields at Klondyke, Chester and Wellsville the assigned clubs began their playing at 3:30 o'clock.

The City band proceeded to Klondyke, where it dispensed music during the contest. There Mayor Brown, of East Liverpool, gave the league officials prestige by his presence, as did Mayor Frank Riley, of Chester, in the latter city.

At Chester the crowd was well cared for by Chief Brady Seevers, thus enabling the play to be witnessed by all in attendance. The new field was singularly dry despite the recent rain following a hurried scraping, making fast play possible.

Despite the cool atmosphere a large crowd witnessed the K. T. K. game with the Trotter-Chevrolet club which had been transferred from Patterson field because of the Salineville-East Liverpool field meet there.

K. T. K. finally won, 9 to 6, though Trotters led for three innings, by one run.

Sanior allowed nine hits which he kept well scattered. R. Pollock was succeeded by Barr in the fourth inning after the bases had been filled and a run forced in. Both Sanior and R. Pollock were wild.

A. Bayley led in hitting with three hits, two doubles and a single in five times up. Herbert hit timely as did Simcox. Sainor likewise singled with the bases full. Sothern and C. Coleman contributed star catches.

Several hundred fans, huddling together in close formation to nullify the cold breeze that blew over Smith field saw the snappy Chester team run away from the fast Homer Laughlin club, of Newell, in the initial City Industrial league contest on their home lot Saturday afternoon. The score was 9 to 2.

M. Cebula, the speedy young West Virginia twirler, held the pottery contingent to four hits. He struck out 13 men and had two doubles besides a flashy fielding play that saved a run.

Reese was taken out in the fourth when a single, two fielder choices following an error had clogged the paths. He passed C. Marshall, thus enabling P. Cebula to score the first run of the game.

Five runs resulted ere McGeehan retired the side. Three hits, one a double, gave Chester two more in the fifth, while an error by Myers and M. Cebula's second double, resulted in Rector's scoring in the eighth.

McGeehan, walking in the fifth, finished on a couple of errors, while Watson, safe on P. Cedula's miscue in the seventh, was forced home after the bases had been filled by another walk and single.

Rector and P. Bennett showed some fancy fielding in the ninth when three long drives reached their territory.

KENTUCKY DERBY FIELD IS LARGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—A field of about 20 is the prospect at present for the fifty-first running of the Kentucky derby. That may be whittled down considerably before post time a week from next Saturday, or—what is more unlikely—the great classic may draw to the barrier from the 139 nominations for the race several which today seem certain to start because they don't look to have the remotest outside chance.

The course of events in racing at various tracks and in workouts here and elsewhere this week and early next will tip the scale of judgment concerning some eligible candidate in many an owner's mind. That is what will decide with him whether it is worth while to pay the $500 starting fee.

OLD TIME STARS WITH MINORS

Veterans of Yesteryear Find Havens in Class A A. Teams.

NEW YORK, May 4. — Where are the stars of yesterday? asked the great bard, and echo answers where? A fortunate few retire to a life of ease and re-go into various small businesses, some of which make money. But the vast majority find a haven in some minor league, getting by on what they know, if anything. Sooner or later, Age, the inevitable, overtakes them and then—oblivion. They can't all be Joe McGinnitys, pitching winning baseball at 52.

Some of them, however, last an unconscionable time. Take the case of Beals Becker, for example. Beals was in the majors some 17 years ago and since passing down below has been one of the leading hitters of the Class AA leagues. He is doing nicely right now with Seattle. On the same club is Jim Bagby, who topped the American league pitchers as late as 1920.

Old Timers.

Not far away, at Sacramento, is Ray Keating, a Yankee pitcher of the pre-Chance era; Merlin Kopp, with the Athletics eight years ago, and Bob Schang, brother of Wally and once with the Giants. At San Francisco you will find Jeff Pfeffer, Pete Kilduff and Sam Agnew, to say nothing of Archie Yelle, Tim Hendryx, another old-time Yankee, and Frank Brower.

Ferdie Schupp, who left handed the National league silly in 1917-18, is with Kansas City in the American Association. So is Dr. John Lavan, Jimmy Zinn, Frank Ellerbe and several others.

Frank Gilhooley, another Yankee favorite of other days, is with Toronto, of the International league.

More Stars.

Down below we find Harry Courtney, ex-Senator; Hugh Bedient, star of the 1912 world series while with the Boston Red Sox; "Red" Smith, ex-Dodger and ex-Brave; Wilbur Good, Paul Fittery and Bert Niehoff teamed up on the Atlanta Crackers with several recent major league discards, identity unimportant.

Ray Caldwell, one of the best pitchers of a decade, when right, which was seldom, is with Little Rock. So is Hod Eller, the shine baller who fanned six white Sox in a row, establising a world series record in 1919.

Larry Kopf, Red shortstop in the same series, is another Little Rock asset, and right alongside of him is Russell Blackburne, whose $12,000 purchase by the White Sox years ago startled the baseball world of that time.

These are only a few of the many. Like bootleggers, the ex-stars are all over.

Six million square feet of window glass made in Belgium is to be shipped to the Pacific Coast of this country.

YANKS, TIGERS ARE ON SKIDS

Cardinals' Fall and Cleveland Spurt are League Surprises.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With the New York Yankees further contributing to the gaiety of the occasion by dropping three of their four games and several notches in the percentage table, the major league races during the week just closed were not without their customary surprises. Chief among these were the loss of seven straight by the Cardinals, rated as one of the best hitting outfits in baseball. The sustained excellence of the Indians' play and the sudden rush of the Cubs.

The Pirates' record of four straight victories was to be expected, however. That club has too much inherent power to languish long in the second division.

It was the Yankees and Detroit Tigers who furnished the sad news. This pair, supposed to be pennant contenders of the first water, are the scandal of a baseball, as they continue to lose with monotonous regularity. A few more weeks of this kind of baseball and their pennant chances will pass away beyond recall.

Some aver the Yanks are qutting cold because Ruth is out of the lineup. They point to the fact that the club played better ball in 1922 with Ruth missing than it did after his return as proof of this contention. The truth of the matter is that the Yanks are far from the same ball club. They had good pitching then and today it is less than ordinary.

The Yanks got 39 hits in four games last week but only 12 runs, proving that they are wasting their safeties. The Red Sox have won only four times since the start of the season, but two of them were lifted from the Yanks last week. Another thing: The Yanks hit sometimes but never behind good pitching.

A general collapse of the pitching staff is the answer to the Tigers' position. They averaged about seven runs and 10 hits a game last week, yet lost five out of six.

The Pirates also hit well but to far greater advantage. In fact, their record of 31 runs scored on 39 hits just about constitutes a record. It is slight wonder that they won all three games played up to and including Saturday.

Good pitching kept the Senators in stride with the astonishing Indians, the world's champions getting only 24 runs in five games. The Indians stepped out with 30 runs and 55 hits in the same number of contests, while the Chicago White Sox, another surprise entry, were winning three out of five games with the weakest exhibition of hitting they have shown since the start of the season.

But the Sox, like the Indians, made every hit have a meaning all its own, getting 29 runs on 39 hits.

The Cubs won four out of five games with an average of a bit more than four runs a game, meaning that the Chicago pitching staff was functioning in the most approved manner.

The depressing series of losses by the Cards can be traced alike to indifferent pitching and failure to hit with men on. The Cards averaged two runs a game for four games last week, which is our idea of nothing at all.

Both the Giants and Reds fell away a bit from their early speed. The McGraw entry managing to win three out of five in spite of mediocree pitching. The Reds slipped in hitting, getting nine runs and 34 hits in four games, of which they dropped three.

The Phillies, hitting like fools, won four out of seven, and managed to remain in the first division, while the Dodgers, recovering their latest punch, averaged more than 10 hits a game, but lost three out of four.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" Add Four Victories to List

The Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" added four more victories to their season's record, over the week-end by defeating the McKinley "Loafers" and the LaCroft nine and also by forfeited games by the St. Stephen's Choir boys and the Merchant Juniors.

The McKinley "Loafers" were vanquished, 8 to 7, the game going 10 innings. The batteries were: "Rinky Dinks," R. Hanlon, F. Callahan and C. Callahan; "Loafers," Pardell and De-Almon.

The "Rinky Dinks" came out on the long end of a 31-9 score with the La Croft team in a game witnessed by a large number of fans. The score:

"Rinky Dinks"..... 5 0 1 1 0 0 1 5 0—31
La Croft ..... 4 2 0 3 0 0 0— 9

Batteries:—Callahan, R. Hanlon and L. Hanlon; Gray and Pasio.

SUNNYMAN, FAST COLT, IS DEAD

BALTIMORE, Md., May 4.—An investigation was under way today into the death of Sunnyman, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's promising colt, which was being primed for the Preakness and the Kentucky derby.

J. P. Smith, trainer, charged the colt was poisoned. There were evidences that Sunnyman had been administered chloral and arsenic prior to his race at Havre de Grace Monday, when he was beaten, Smith said.

Sunnyman had turned in some sensational times in trials. The colt was insured for $150,000.

Church Baseball League Officers To Meet Tuesday

Officers and executives of the Church Baseball league will hold a business meeting in St. John's Lutheran church at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The league will include six teams, entries having been made by the Boyce Methodist Episcopal, First Baptist, Second United Presbyterian, St. John's Lutheran, First and Second Christian churches.

Members of the First Christian church team will practice at Columbian park Tuesday evening.

Tagging The Bases

In keeping with the neutral tint of the Yankee situation in general, Gray left handed Huggins' outfit scoreless, the Athletics winning 1 to 0 when Miller socked a homer in the second.

Hornsby wafted two off the premises as the Cardinals broke their long losing streak with an 8 to 7 decision over the Cubs. Dickerman and Dyer almost blew the works in the ninth, but Day stopped the Cubs in time.

Rain and the exigencies of train schedules forced the Indians and Tigers to call it an afternoon with the score tied at 6 to 6.

Dutch Reeuther not only pitched the Red Sox into submission, 7 to 2, but his hitting started a pair of sensational rallies in the third and fifth.

CIRCUS DAY IS DRAWING NEAR.

YANKS, TIGERS ARE ON SKIDS

Cardinals' Fall and Cleveland Spurt are League Surprises.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With the New York Yankees further contributing to the gaiety of the occasion by dropping three of their four games and several notches in the percentage table, the major league races during the week just closed were not without their customary surprises. Chief among these were the loss of seven straight by the Cardinals, rated as one of the best hitting outfits in baseball. The sustained excellence of the Indians' play and the sudden rush of the Cubs.

The Pirates' record of four straight victories was to be expected, however. That club has too much inherent power to languish long in the second division.

It was the Yankees and Detroit Tigers who furnished the sad news. This pair, supposed to be pennant contenders of the first water, are the scandal of a baseball, as they continue to lose with monotonous regularity. A few more weeks of this kind of baseball and their pennant chances will pass away beyond recall.

Some aver the Yanks are qutting cold because Ruth is out of the line-up. They point to the fact that the club played better ball in 1922 with Ruth missing than it did after his return as proof of this contention. The truth of the matter is that the Yanks are far from the same ball club. They had good pitching then and today it is less than ordinary.

The Yanks got 39 hits in four games last week but only 12 runs, proving that they are wasting their safeties. The Red Sox have won only four times since the start of the season, but two of them were lifted from the Yanks last week. Another thing: The Yanks hit sometimes but never behind good pitching.

A general collapse of the pitching staff is the answer to the Tigers' position. They averaged about seven runs and 10 hits a game last week, yet lost five out of six.

The Pirates also hit well but to far greater advantage. In fact, their record of 31 runs scored on 39 hits just about constitutes a record. It is slight wonder that they won all three games played up to and including Saturday.

Good pitching kept the Senators in stride with the astonishing Indians, the world's champions getting only 24 runs in five games. The Indians stepped out with 30 runs and 55 hits in the same number of contests, while the Chicago White Sox, another surprise entry, were winning three out of five games with the weakest exhibition of hitting they have shown since the start of the season.

But the Sox, like the Indians, made every hit have a meaning all its own, getting 29 runs on 39 hits.

The Cubs won four out of five games with an average of a bit more than four runs a game, meaning that the Chicago pitching staff was functioning in the most approved manner.

The depressing series of losses by the Cards can be traced alike to indifferent pitching and failure to hit with men on. The Cards averaged two runs a game for four games last week, which is our idea of nothing at all.

Both the Giants and Reds fell away a bit from their early speed. The McGraw entry managing to win three out of five in spite of mediocree pitching. The Reds slipped in hitting, getting nine runs and 34 hits in four games, of which they dropped three.

The Phillies, hitting like fools, won four out of seven, and managed to remain in the first division, while the Dodgers, recovering their latest punch, averaged more than 10 hits a game, but lost three out of four.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" Add Four Victories to List

The Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" added four more victories to their season's record, over the week-end by defeating the McKinley "Loafers" and the LaCroft nine and also by forfeited games by the St. Stephen's Choir boys and the Merchant Juniors.

SUNNYMAN, FAST COLT, IS DEAD

BALTIMORE, Md., May 4.—An investigation was under way today into the death of Sunnyman, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's promising colt, which was being primed for the Preakness and the Kentucky derby.

J. P. Smith, trainer, charged the colt was poisoned. There were evidences that Sunnyman had been administered chloral and arsenic prior to his race at Havre de Grace Monday, when he was beaten, Smith said.

Sunnyman had turned in some sensational times in trials. The colt was insured for $150,000.

Tagging The Bases

In keeping with the neutral tint of the Yankee situation in general, Gray left handed Huggins' outfit scoreless, the Athletics winning 1 to 0 when Miller socked a homer in the second.

Hornsby wafted two off the premises as the Cardinals broke their long losing streak with an 8 to 7 decision over the Cubs. Dickerman and Dyer almost blew the works in the ninth, but Day stopped the Cubs in time.

Rain and the exigencies of train schedules forced the Indians and Tigers to call it an afternoon with the score tied at 6 to 6.

Dutch Reeuther not only pitched the Red Sox into submission, 7 to 2, but his hitting started a pair of sensational rallies in the third and fifth.

CIRCUS DAY IS DRAWING NEAR.

Educated ponies are still featured with the Gentry Bros.-Jas. Patterson Circus, which will be here Wednesday, May 6.

Says Understanding Needed to Prevent Conflict in East

BERKLEY, Cal., May—"War in the Pacific will come unless the United States adopts a new attitude toward the countries of the orient," according to Dr. William Axling, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle at Tokyo, who spoke to the foreign students at the University of California recently.

Dr. Axling, who was official interpreter for the Japanese delegation at the Washington disarmament Conference in 1922 and is an authority on international affairs, told the students that our task is to build across the Pacific a bridge of real understanding and that out of that will come friendship and international brotherhood.

Wild Hunt for Child.

DEFIANCE, May — Hundreds of persons were called from their beds, by the ringing of fire bells, to aid police and firemen in a search of 7-year-old Della Ruth who disappeared from an Elks' bazaar at 11 o'clock at night and did not reach her home here until 5 a. m. the next day. It developed that the child, becoming tired, crawled into the auto of Frank Coressel, thinking it was her father's car. Not noting the child, Coressel drove home and locked the auto and child in his garage. Cries of the distracted child next morning resulted in her discovery.

Earth's Shortest Sermons.
Amplify Them Yourself.
Mellon and Pankhurst.
Secretary's Prophecy Preferred.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune).

Brevity is the soul of wit. That you all know.

Brevity is the soul of all writing. The man worth while writes, as Montaigne said of himself, 'Not that you may read, but that you may think."

A flood of words chokes thought. The right thought briefly expressed promotes thought.

This writer had thought that the shortest complete expression of thought was to be found, outside of well-known Proverbs and maxims, in some of the very short chapters of Montesquieu's admirable "Spirit of Laws.' Here and there you come across a chapter containing only three or four lines.

That is admirable brevity. But consider the seven sermons written by Rev. Roy L. Smith, who preaches at the Simpson Methodist Episcopal church in Minneapolis.

The Rev. Mr. Smith intends that those that hear shall do at least the thinking.

These are some of his sermons, numbered:

1—If we have no ideals we are like a tourist without road maps, markers or guides.

2—If we have no Ambition we are like an engine without any fuel.

3—If we have no Self Respect we are like reeds without any resistance.

4—If we have no Faith we are like a car on a miry road.

5—If we have no Education we are like sheep that must be herded.

6—If we have no Charity we live in a world perpetually frozen.

7—If we have no Facts we had better keep forever silent in an argument.

It is a shame to spoil that admirable brevity by adding a word. Nevertheless we ask you to consider one or two other samples of brevity, each of which starts thinking—the important thing.

"To be or not to be, that is the question."

Those are probably the best known 10 words in all of Shakespeare. You couldn't improve on them, for brevity.

And you couldn't improve on these four words, also from Hamlet:

"The rest is silence."

Passing suddenly from Shakespeare, you read this bit of concise wisdom:

"Conscience get a lot of credit that ought to be charged up to cold feet."

There is deep wisdom in that.

A man gets rich, tries to make up for the wrong or the cheating that he has done, and thinks his conscience is working. But really, it is his fear of living the rest of his life with a low opinion of himself, or his fear of what may happen to him hereafter. In other words, "cold feet" should have the credit for his good deeds.

For perfect examples of brevity read "The Maxims of La Rochefoucauld." There you will find the wisdom of centuries boiled down into few words. Where you find action, you usually find brevity."

Milton, who lived in the realm of thought, but not of action, wrote beautiful, long letters in Latin while he acted as Cromwell's secretary. Cromwell, writing for himself in plain English, wrote the shortest kind of communications. But what a terrific "punch" was in them!

Voltaire was dreary in his diffusions when writing his plays that have not lived, marvelously brief and powerful in the great fight that established his fame forever.

No victory won on the battlefield outshines in glory or courage the vic-

STALKED BY FAMINE, 4,000 RIFFIANS BATTLE 12,000 FRENCH IN MOROCCO

Paris Airmen are Reported to be "Heavily Bombing" Tribesmen Who are Burning Villages—Troop Reinforcements Called.

RABAT, Morocco, May 4.—Stalked by famine 4,000 Riffians under the leadership of Abed-El-Krim, "Robinhood of Morocco are battling 12,000 French troops in French Morocco and burning villages in Spanish-Morocco today, according to advices from the field.

The Riffians and France were considered virtually at war and French airmen were reported in dispatches to be "heavily bombing the Riffians."

The situation has become so serious that all available French and Moorish troops have been hurried to the scene of action. An important concentration of Riffians was reported to have been made near Tissa, 25 miles northeast of Fez, toward which city Abed-El-Kirm is making his drive. This would place the Riffians 20 miles inside the French outposts. (Dispatches Saturday said 10 French outposts had been isolated by the Riffian drive).

Among the French and Moorish forces engaged against the Riffians were 18 infantry battalions, six squadrons of cavalry and 12 batteries of artillery.

In addition to 4,000 men in the field, Abed-El-Krim is said to be holding 4,000 men in reserve for either a surprise attack or to reinforce his combat forces.

The Riffians were reported to be facing a tragic shortage of food and raids have been made on towns in the

Alleged Klansmen Are Held in Bail On Rioting Charges

CHESTER, Pa., May 4.—Guy Bernhardt, Wesley Shoemaker, Earl Robinson and Edward Howhen, all of Chester, and alleged members of the Ku Klux Klan, were held in bail today by Justice of the Peace Welch, of Folsom, on charges of rioting as a result of a clash between klansmen and residents of Eddystone and Leipersville, near here, yesterday, when Samuel E. Coleman, alleged klansman, was shot and several other persons slightly injured, according to authorities. The four will be given another hearing tonight, police said.

COUNTY MOTOR CLUB SECRETARY TURNS GUNS ON 'NO LEFT TURN' AND 'NO PARKING' REGULATIONS

Condemnation of the so-called "no left turn" and the "no parking" regulations in front of theaters, except which theaters are in use, was voiced today by E. M. Diehl, secretary of the Columbiana County Motor club.

"Removal of these restrictions, put into effect by the police during the last few weeks, will make it easier for the automobile driver to get about," Diehl says.

"If traffic is to be regulated effectively, the traffic system must be revised with a view to simplifying matters for the average intelligence, otherwise traffic accidents will be on the increase and safety will suffer as a consequence of fear and timidity as well as uncalled for regulations," he declared.

As a means of solving the traffic situation here, Diehl urges the installation of traffic lights at the principal cross streets if the money is available. Several members of the automobile club have promised to make contributions to provide a traffic light system in the event that the city is unable to provide the needed funds.

"Traffic lights have proved very helpful to both pedestrians and motorists in other cities, both larger and and smaller than East Liverpool, and there is no real reason why traffic lights would not be practical and an excellent investment," Diehl said.

He expressed the opinion that local officials are exaggerating the seriousness of traffic problem by certain regulations which have been announced recently.

"The so-called problem of left turn is an admission of inadequate traffic control," Diehl said. "Left turns put a stop to round-the-block business. Several cases in this city prove that if one left turn were permitted, four left turns, now necessary, would be eliminated.

"For fear of making some error in negotiating a left turn, many drivers often go completely around the block, proceeding in the desired direction by means of this primitive expedient. Then they try to make up for lost time by driving hastily and thus jeopardizing pedestrians and taking unwarranted chances.

"Traffic Complex" Sufferers

"The average driver is made to feel that traffic is a sort of contest in which a false move may mean arrest. Even the law-abiding driver comes to fear traffic with the result that he arrives at the crossing in a highly nervous state, suffering from an ailment known as the 'traffic complex.' Traffic is being regulated and legislated to a point where the average driver becomes confused at the expense of safety, because of the multiplicity of unnecessary rules that are constantly being made and withdrawn.

"A section of the city traffic ordinance provides 20 feet in front of or near the entrances to theatres and churches as a 'no parking' area, while such building is in use. This is believed sufficient and the police department should not designate such areas as 'no parking' zones at all times.

"Motor clubs have no records showing a four-corner stop regulation in use anywhere, and therefore oppose experimenting with automobile traffic. Such an addition to the present city traffic ordinance as would require vehicles to stop before entering or crossing a main thoroughfare is well worthy of consideration. However, its need should be carefully studied and some thought given the possibilities of enforcing it before any action is taken.

COOLIDGE HITS RACIAL HATRED

Condemns Religious Prejudice in Extolling American Jews.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Racial hatred and jealousy, particularly that based on religious differences, has no place in the United States today, President Coolidge told an audience of 5,000 people in a Sunday sermon delivered here at the dedication of a new Jewish community center.

The president extolled the record and character of American Jews and praised their participation in the development of the nation.

"Every inheritance of the Jewish people, draws them powerfully to the side of charity, liberty and progress," he said, "and we may be sure they will not desert it."

"The work of spiritual unification is not completed. Factional, sectional, social and political lines of conflict still persist. Despite all experience, society continues to engender the hatreds and jealousies whereof are born domestic strife and international conflict.

"But education and enlightment are breaking the force. Reason is emerging."

Prominent Jewish leaders, including Louis Marshall, of New York, assailed anti-Semetic movements, and particularly denounced Prof. Philip Marshall Brown, of Princeton, whose recent charge that Jews maintained "dual citizenship" recently erupted the convention of the American Society of International Law.

"The very suggestion that we hold a divided allegiance," said Marshall, "is an insult to the memory of the Jews who in every period of American history gladly gave their lives and their possessions for the preservation of this government."

tory that Voltaire won in the Callas case.

Try to attain brevity. Few words, much thought lead to success.

Miss Christobel Pankhurst, formerly an ardent worker for woman suffrage, is now "searching in the Scriptures," as Cromwell used to say. She discovers in an ancient Biblical prophecy signs of a world crash, coming very soon.

She foresees first a federation of all the powers of Europe, one superman at the top. One religion, one kind of education, enormous wealth. The superman will be the reincarnation of "the beast" in Revelation. And then, when everything is nicely fixed, will come the terrific smash. That will be necessary because the superman scheme will be Godless.

You read that and worry a good deal, and then you read what is said by Dean Inge, of St. Paul's, in London, the profoundly learned clergyman, who ought to know what he is talking about. Dean Inge, discussing a new translation of the Bible, says that the Old Testament merely describes the beliefs of a savage tribe of Bedouins, the earliest Jewish people, and the Rev. Inge adds that modern religious ideas can't be based on those Bedouin theories.

He thinks that a good deal of the Bible should be eliminated, as part of it is not the sort of thing you should read aloud in the family. In fact, his servants were horrified, and asked him to stop when he had read certain parts, even expurgated.

These conflicting opinions of Mrs. Pankhurst and the dean are confusing. You remember reading in the Old Testament about the laws of slavery. It is said that if one of the ancient Jews had a Jewish slave he must let him go free after seven years. Slaves not Jewish remained slaves forever. But if that Jewish slave had married in his master's employ, and had children, and didn't want to leave his wife and children, then his master was to stand him up against the door post, bore a hole in his ear "with an awl," and after that he was to be a slave forever. See Exodus, xx., 6.

With only ordinary enlightenment such as laymen possess, it would seem, it must be confessed that such an arrangement sounds more like savage Bedouins than like the Ruler of the Universe giving personal direction. However, the layman should study and reflect, but never presume to judge. Who is he that he should have opinions?

A more pleasing, definite, perhaps more reliable prophecy comes from Mr. Mellon, secretary of the treasury. He says that an era of great prosperity is ahead of us. His annual report as secretary of the treasury describes the strong position of trade and industry in the United States. And to make things better, he, Mr. Mellon, is working at tax reforms and economics, the president earnestly encouraging sound economy.

Cleveland Suspect In Bogus War Stamp Conspiracy Held

CLEVELAND, May 4.—Michael la Paglia is under arrest here today on a charge of forging and passing 2,600 counterfeit war saving stamps as a member of the counterfeiting ring which unloosed a flood of spurious stamps in Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Boston several months ago.

According to W. G. Harper, U. S. secret service chief, Paglia received stamps from one of the members of the ring in Chicago and sold them to Biagio Russo and Joseph Zottarelli, a Cleveland attorney, who is now free under heavy bond. Russo and Zottarelli are charged with accepting the stamps at a 25 per cent reduction and selling them at race value.

Columbus Bandits Get $6,300 Loot In Series of "Jobs"

COLUMBUS, May 4.—Hold-up men and safe crackers continued operations in Columbus today, after a series of "jobs" Sunday, the police reported. Robbers secured a total loot of more than $6,300 in cash.

Two masked bandits shortly after daybreak today entered the Waldorf restaurant, in the business section, and forced G. G. Hartman, cashier, to give over $134.75. Part of the loot was taken from the safe. The bandits also emptied Hartman's pockets. The bandits escaped in an automobile.

Safe crackers looted the safe of the Colonial Finance company of $2,500 in cash and $15,000 in checks, officials reported to the police. Robbers also broke into the safe of the Freeman-Neff Realty company, but their haul is not known. A total of $160 was reported to have been left in the safe.

RUM CHASERS SHOOT TO KILL

Orders Issued in War Against Liquor Running Fleet.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With orders "to shoot to kill" the greatest "rum chasing" armada ever assembled was preparing a war for extermination today against the liquor running fleet along the northern Atlantic coast.

Sixty vessels tuned to high speed and carrying machine guns were gathered at the coast guard base here awaiting orders to sortie forth and eliminate rum row. Units have been borrowed from other points along the coast.

"We have been instructed to shoot first and investigate afterward," one coast guard officer said. "We'll take them or sink them."

race, the local contest committee today passed a resolution to recommend demotion of one place for Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herbert V. Thaden.

This action is offered in place of that of Major Lambert, who Friday night disqualifed the two aeronauts.

Contest Committee to Act.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., May 4.—The muddle into which the national elimination balloon race has revolved itself through the action of Major A. B. Lambert, referee, and the counter action of the local contest committee was to be cleared this morning.

The meeting of the committee is to be held. Action is scheduled to be taken on the telegram from Major in which he sets forth the facts in the case and agreed to withdraw the disqualification order from Captain H. E. Honeywell and Herert V. Thaden, provided neither is allowed to place first or second in the race.

At a meeting Saturday night, the contest committee passed a resolution to the effect that Major Lambert apparently acted without authority when he disqualified the balloonists. The committee agreed, however, that they may be penalized.

If Major Lambert's request is acted upon, it will mean that Honeywell, flying the St. Joseph entry, will place third and Thaden's fourth position, will not be changed.

Wollam Travels 600 Miles.

W. T. Van Orman, piloting the Goodyear III bag, apparently has won first place and the Litchfield trophy. He landed at Reform, Alabama, and covered approximately 600 miles. Van Orman's aide was C. K. Wollam, former East Liverpool, O., boy. Honeywell made the second best distance, landing at Aberdeen, Miss. Should the committee agree to Referee Lambert's request, it will mean that the army balloon S-14, piloted by Lieutenant W. J. Flood, will be placed second, although it did not travel as far as Honeywell's entry. Official announcement of the winners will not be made for several days, Carl H. Wolfley, executive chairman of the race, said this morning.

The announcement will be made by the committee of the National Aeronautical association, after it has checked the logs of the pilots.

The three balloonists flying the greatest distances comprise the team that will represent the United States at Brussels, June 7, in the international race for the Gordon Bennett cup.

Winners Off to Cincinnati.

REFORM, Ala., May 4.—W. T. Van Orman, pilot of the Goodyear III, and C. K. Wollam, his aide, prepared to depart today for Cincinnati after having been notified by Colonel Wolfley, chairman of the National Eliminatic/ Balloon Race committee, that they had won the first prize of $1,000 and the right to represent the United States in the international races at Brussels.

Van Orman made a forced landing here at 8 o'clock Sunday morning when his ballast had been exhausted. He had travelled approximately 530 miles on a direct line from St. Joseph, Mo., where the race began at 6 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Flight Uneventful.

The big bag followed a circuitous route, however, and it was estimated by the pilots that they had covered at least 700 miles.

The flight was uneventful, the airmen declared today. The balloon was equipped with radio sets and its occupants spent much time "listening in" on programs of different broadcasting stations and receiving weather reports.

The Goodyear III and equipment were being packed for shipment to Akron, Ohio, today.

Van Norman and Wollam were winners of the national race from San Antonio, last year.

The splendor that once was the palace of the former Kaiser Wilhelm, on the Wilhelmstrasse, in Berlin, has been subdued and converted into the living quarters of the president of the German republic. The art gallery is shown above; below is the royal dining room. The president, however, uses a smaller and less pretentious dining room. Inset are General Von Hindenburg, who defeated Wilhelm Marx (below), in the presidential race.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, May 4.—The stock market today started in a confident tone and early prices were higher. American Can and other industrial leaders continued the rally inaugurated on Friday and Saturday and moved forward to higher levels. The two leading "summer stocks," Coca Cola and American Ice, exceeded their best previous price records, Coca Cola selling at the highest price in its history.

Oil stocks showed a much better tone, buying of the so-called Independent Oil shares being punctuated by favorable comments on the decline in light crude oil and production and the enormous increase in gasoline consumption. Upward movements continued in a few of the railroad stocks, buying was not as aggressive as in last week's sessions. North American, at the head of the public utilities stocks, spurted to new high prices, while United States Realty led the specialty stock and Sears-Roebuck the mercantile stocks.

The foreign exchanges were steady at the opening, with the exception of French francs and lira, grain prices were higher and cotton reactionary. Call money opened at 4 per cent.

Industrial stocks were freely offered on profit taking at the end of the first hour and the rally in that department of the market appeared to have reached the peak for the time being. Speculative interest then turned to the railroad stocks, which, under the leadership of New York Central and Frisco common, spurted a point or two on heavy buying. New York Central gained 2 points at 118¾, Frisco common was 1⅝ at 77¼, Norfolk and Western, Rock Island, Southern Railway and other active rails sold at new high prices for the current movement.

St. Louis Murder May be Recorded As Unsolved Crime

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—That the murder of Dr. William M. Dillon, prorminent surgeon and an athletic idol of 25 years ago, may be recorded in the voluminous dockets of unsolved crime, was the belief of city and county authorities today as Prosecuting Attorney Mueller prepared to formally reopen the inquest into Dillon's death.

Detectives, prodded by Miller, after 24 hours of investigation centered specifically on the reported threatening telephone calls to Dillon from a prominent west suburban resident, today declared this, the most plausible clue, had collapsed.

"We have proven that Miss Eleanor Lyons, switchboard operator who overheard these calls, is not at all certain of their origin. On close examination her testimony was a mass of conflictions," Detective Sergeant Eugene Martineau, directing the investigation, said.

NEW YORK, May 4.—Gaston B. Means, former department of justice agent, must serve two years in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta and pay a fine of $10,000 for conspiring to violate the Volstead Act. The United States circuit court of appeals so decided today when it upheld the verdict handed down by the United States district court before which Means and his so-called secretary, Elmer W. Jarnecke, were convicted in this city last July.

Means is now out on bail of about $50,000 cash, but may be called upon today or tomorrow to surrender himself on the first conviction.

The conviction, which was upheld today, was obtained on evidence to the effect that Means accepted large sums of money in return for which he promised to use his influence with high officials to get permits for the withdrawal of great quantities of liquor from a distillery in Bronwsville, Pa.

automobile. The disabled machines were taken to garages by the McElray Brothers' wrecker.

About a half hour earlier in the evening, automobiles driven by Lloyd Stanley, Riverview street, and Denver Green collided just about 200 feet from the scene of the other wreck. Passengers escaped injury, but both cars were badly damaged.

A car owned by Wilbur Cook, Lincoln highway, was sunk in about 15 feet of water in the Ohio river at the foot of Broadway early Sunday morning, when Cook attempted to start it. The driver leaped from the car, escaping a cold bath. When the McElravy Brother's wrecker pulled the machine from the river Sunday afternoon, the top of the car was torn off by the weight of the water.

Jack Boughey, of East End, was fined $100 and costs when he was arraigned Sunday before Mayor Brown, charged with driving an automobile while intoxicated. Boughey was arrested on Erie street by Captain Conley after he is alleged to have sideswiped another automobile and crashed into two trees. His car was badly damaged. He made arrangements to pay his fine.

RE-OPEN NAVAL OIL SCANDAL

Seek Re-indictment of Principals in Teapot Dome Leasing.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Re-indictment of the principals in the naval oil scandal, was asked today of the special grand jury called to investigate the alleged conspiracy in the leasing of the Teapot Dome and Elk Hills reserves.

Bribery and conspiracy indictments against ex-Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall, Harry F. Sinclair, Edward L. Dohney, and Edward L. Dohney, Jr., recently were quashed on technical grounds when Justice McCoy, of district of Columbia supreme court, held that Oliver E. Pagan, an assistant attorney general, illegally was present in the grand jury room during the taking of testimony.

The bribery charges have been outlawed by the statute of limitations and the government oil counsel, Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, sought only indictments for conspiracy.

The grand juhy is not expected to report until early in June.

ination of traffic tangles that were common in our narrow alleys before they were made one-way.

"We believe that the safety department would contribute greatly to the safety and convenience of the people if it would give attention to the reasonable enforcement of the present city traffic ordinance and dismiss indefinitely any thought of additional rules. The traffic ordinance, passed by city council last fall and in effect at the present time, is very simple and easily understood. The principal reasons for its adoption by the city were, first, to bring the city's ordinance into conformity with the state traffic code, and, second, to have a city ordinance which would keep money collected in fines in the city treasury rather than turn it over to the state as before."

Fire Wisdom

"Fire-prevention Day" called forth this little collection of ripe wisdom from a man who has been member of a city fire department for 50 years and chief of it for more than half that period, and has fought more fires than any other man in America:

"Don't put ashes in wooden boxes or barrels;

"Don't accumulate rubbish anywhere;

"Don't store old bedding;

"Put all dust, sweepings, sawdust and waste paper in metal receptacles;

"Don't store excelsior, barrels, straw and old mattresses in cellars;

"Clean the chimney flue;

"Keep oils, paints, grease and fats outside the house in a metal box;

"Close all holes in floors, walls and ceilings, lest they allow fire, once started, to travel swiftly through the building;

"Clean meat grease from ovens;

"Throw salt on flame in case of fire;

"Learn the nearest fire-alarm box."

It would be a good idea to read this over two or three times to the assembled family and then paste it up where it will be seen frequently.

Old Art Monopoly

"Another old master brought from England." It is an old story. Almost every day now there is a report of some old painting or other art work imported from the Old World.

The older countries are becoming alarmed about it, especially England. There is talk there of putting a prohibitive export tax on art works, or establishing a government fund to buy up such old masterpieces as are in danger of being lost to the country.

It is easy to understand the sentiment of a country, rich in art and proud of its artistic past, as it sees the dissipation of its art treasures. But it is not necessarily a real loss to the Old World to have so many of those works go to America.

Not to mention the money obtained for them, there is the stimulus that may come to new art as the old vanishes. In the presence of great masterpieces, or works that pass as such, the new masters never have a fair chance. If Europe does lose its historic art treasures, a new generation of artists may produce new art as good as the old, or better.

At the same time, America may be losing. The spending of so many millions abroad for works some of which are admittedly great, but many of which owe their valuation only to their name and limited supply, is bad for American art. Our own artists don't get a fair chance.

A Movie School

The announcement that a great moving picture producing company is establishing a school to train its actors indicates a new development in that industry. The school will have a board of directors comprising authors, actors and producers of wide repute. It will seek and train the best talent offering from all parts of North America. It will uphold the ideals of the leaders in this industry—accuracy of detail, artistry in production and wholesomeness in character.

The critical public will be glad to have more artistry used in all phases of picture making. Too often now a poor story has a beautiful setting and is made with perfect photography so that people go to see it regardless of poor acting and negligible story. the combination of a fine drama with good acting and artistic photography is not common.

Perhaps a movie school will improve the screen drama rapidly. Improvement is bound to come from various sources because the possibilities of the moving picture are too great to be forever neglected or misused.

Japanese War Game

The Japanese, too, are going to play at war in the Pacific. Their naval operations may or may not be inspired by the practice work of the United States navy at Hawaii and its voyage to the Philippines and Australia.

The Japanese maneuvers are much more modest than the American. They are represented as in celebration of Admiral Togo's great victory over the Russian fleet, in the war which made Japan a military power. The anniversary comes on May 27. There will be a demonstration of Japan's ability to beat off a hostile armada.

The United States will not protest, officially or unofficially, against any such defensive maneuvers. Either nation is free to maneuver all it wants to, as long as it is not offensive in fact or in manner. The Pacific is big, and offers plenty of room. Both nations are merely having a drill in self-defensive work. Neither, presumably, thinks of attacking the other. Yet it must be admitted that, useful as such operations are from a military point of view, they do not always have a wholesome effect on diplomacy and public opinion. Sincere peace-lovers will welcome the time, if that time ever comes, when even defensive maneuvers are not regarded as necessary.

"Cross-word puzzles," a physician writes, "have been the means of reuniting many families." But no figures are yet available of the families cross words have separated.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, May 4.—A page from the diary of a modern Samuel Pepys: Up very betimes and gay as never more at finding myself clear of debt. So with my wife to Sherry's for noon day breakfast which, idiot I am, cost me more than a pound.

Afterward to watch Earl Carroll rehearse a play and a fellow came in for an acting part but had his cheeks painted like a woman's and Earl said "Would you hire him?" and I said "No." Nor would I and he did not and then I worried about it all day.

In the evening to the home of Keats Speed, the Sun editor, for dinner and a gay gathering and Mistress Florence had the best dinner I ever ate and told some mirthless tayles, too, but Keats very glum for the good reason he had that day had eight teeth drawn. Home at midnight and to bed.

To New York's so called Intelligentsia all outside their circle are the dullest of Babbitts. Shey are getting out a weekly journal now which they announce superiorly is not written "for the old lady in Dubuque."

Several times I have attended pow-wows where they were supposed to be the life of the party—the little rays of sunshine illuminating the gloomy stupidity of other guests.

There is one who recites—always the same droll piece. He feels hurt if he isn't asked. Two others do what their fellows call a "delicious skit over the heads of the mob."

The effort at quick repartee is so stilted it crackles. Carrol Kennicott at the height of her social entertaining career in Gopher Prairie never gave such an exhibition of Babbittry.

One of the important executives of a New York organization was recently dismissed without warning. He was given a year's leave on salary with all expenses paid to Europe or whereever he cared to go. He was dismissed for the old reason he worked too hard. He was first at his office and last to leave. Work obsessed him and he became a slave driver with those in his employ. He could not perfect a smoothly running organization. So the board of directors decided to break up all his contacts. While he doesn't know it at the end of the year another post and an important one will be waiting for him. Overwork at times becomes almost as much of a handicap as laziness.

When I heard this story I began to wonder if I might be getting over zealous. I suggested such a possibility to the man who syndicates my stuff. He laughed heartily and asked me if I knew any more good ones and to close the door going out. I talked it over with my wife and found her later in the bathroom stuffing a towel in her mouth. She was that convulsed Some people have a silly notion that sitting at a typewriter four hours or so a day is a soft berth. And nothing you can say will change them.

Thew rist watch appears to be going the way of the bicycle. Dealers report that there has been a big slump in sales. Young blades are going in for the thin-as-a-dime watches carried in their weskits without chains.

I suppose spats will be the next to go. That will be just my luck. Just when I get used to wearing them along with a wrist watch without feeling as conspicuous as a carbuncle in a beauty parlor.

Theatre goers are working a new dodge. They have auto license plates from other states and park their cars while the traffic officer isn't looking. Then they go into the theatre. They know it will be impossible to find them. The officer usually changes posts before they return for their cars. Copyrighted, 1925, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

The Little Scorpion's Club— By Fontaine Fox

HASKIN'S LETTER

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Bad Boys and Girls.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 4.—For a decade, or ever since the World war was well under way, the immoral and unmoral tendencies of the younger generation have provoked comment and criticism from many sources. Ministers, teachers, psychologists, social welfare workers, judges, police officials, parents and grandparents have been alarmed by what they have observed or had reported to them concerning the conduct of boys and girls of high school age, and have asked frequently the question, "What is the world coming to?"

Now comes the committee on character of the New York City Board of Education with an indictment of modern youth that is startling in the extreme. After a year's investigation of moral conditions in the high schools of the metropolis the committee has made a report in which it states bluntly that the school disciplinarian has to deal with almost every conceivable kind of crime.

"He must frequently call upon the police for help," says the committee. "To maintain law and order he needs the training of a detective; he often wishes he had a fingerprint expert, a psycolologist and a psychiatrist."

Thieving, cheating, gambling, lying and forgery are among the crimes or sins common among adolescents, according to this authority. Respect for parents and for duty constituted authority is almost wholly lacking. In fact, practically the only commandment which the youth of the day concern themselves about is the ultra-modern one, "Thou shalt not be caught or found out!"

It is admitted that this characterization does not apply to the whole high school student body, but at the same time the assertion is made that it does apply to "a large percentage of our boys and girls" who have "adopted the code of the street because they have never learned a higher code of morals."

Anything is all right "if you can get away with it," according to this code. Copying home-work is entirely honorable if one is not caught. Cutting classes is to be commended if one can "get by." Forging the signature of a parent or guardian to an excuse of a report is a simple way of saving a lot of trouble—unless one is found out. Thieving is a matter of almost daily occurrence, cheating is no disgrace if the offender is not detected, and gambling — especially crapshooting—is an ordinary pastime among the boys.

Moral Instruction Needed.

These investigators confirm a charge frequently made to the effect that at present the church, as a direct moral agency, touches the lives of only a small proportion of the young people, and they add that those who teach in New York city know too well how sadly lacking is the moral influence in many homes today and know that in many homes the parent is no longer the controlling and directing influence.

"In the face of these facts," says the report, "this committee believes that there is urgent need of moral instruction in the high schools. We must give definite, positive instruction as to questions of right and wrong. The school programs must provide an opportunity for frank discussions of matters of conduct and behavior. The aim should be to develop clear-cut conceptions of positive virtues, to present the principles of right living that will govern boys and girls in making moral decisions, rather than to stress the negative, 'Thou shalt not.'"

This means a radical change in the educational policy which has heretofore stressed intellectual attainment as the chief aim while relegating character-building and training for citizenship to the background. A proposed plan to excuse children from school in regular hours to attend church schools for religious instruction is, however, opposed by the committee. Specific recommendations as to the work that should be undertaken in high schools include:

The formation and adoption by students of ethical codes and their use as the sanction of school collective opinion for standards of right.

The use of sections and general assemblies for instructional and inspirational work in character education.

The training of students in responsibility for standards of conduct, manners and taste, through student organizations.

The use of citizenship, or character, ratings on the permanent records and on the reports to parents.

Discipline, based on sympathetic understanding, with attempt to change student's attitude. Services of psychologists for better understanding of abnormal pupils.

Sympathetic co-operation with the home and with welfare agencies.

Revision of wording on diplomas to include both character and scholarship qualifications.

Emphasis on demands of colleges and business firms for credentials of good character.

That the position of dean be established in high schools, for direction of character education.

High Schools in Other Cities.

A cosmopolitan high school is a cross-section of the great city itself, including every element of society, every race, every color, every creed, says the committee. This suggests the question as to whether the New York city high schools constitute a cross-section of the high schools of the United States as a whole, and whether the conditions found in the survey made in that city reflect conditions existing throughout the country.

No nation-wide study of the subject has been made and leaders in national educational affairs are reluctant to express opinions on the subject. However, it is in evidence that high school students in other cities are exhibiting wayward tendencies quite similar to those charged against the youth of New York.

Quite recently a group of high school boys in another eastern city were caught with a stolen automobile. Upon investigation it developed that these same boys had stolen more than 40 cars before they were apprehended. They claimed that they had only taken them for "joy-riding" purposes and there was no proof that they had ever attempted to profit by their thefts through selling or trading the machines.

In another city, a druggist whose store was looted in the immediate vicinity of a large high school was arrested on a charge of selling liquor to students, both boys and girls, and his license was revoked. Later the druggist appeared to have ventured into a straight bootlegging business, for his store was raided by prohibition enforcement officers and a large supply of whisky and gin was confiscated. The inference is that there must have been a considerable amount of drinking among the high school students to have tempted this business man into flagrant law violation.

Fortunate the bad element, while a large percentage, constitutes but a fractional part of the high school population, says the New York committee. "The rest are interesting young people to know and work with, full of enthusiasm and energy and responsive to leadership. It is true that some of them are loud, ill mannered and over confident. Others are of the flapper type, with the bobbed locks and ever-ready mirror, rouge and powder puff. But this is only the exterior representation of their environment. They are, in reality, warm-hearted, generous-minded and remarkably loyal in their devotion to an ideal to which they are pledged."

Epworth League Playlet.

The Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal church will present the farce, "The Little Clodhopper," written by Walter Ben Hare, in the High school auditorium, May 12. This entertainment is for the purpose of raising funds to send delegates to the annual institute at Bethesda. Charles Nease is the director of the affair. The cast follows:

Septimus Green (The Peppy Book Agent)—Charles Nease.

Ocey Gump (Fresh Country product)—Dan Rupt.

George Chiggerson (Innocent Lamb from the City)—Preston Bailey.

Mrs. Chiggerson Boggs (His Mother, a smooth Schemer)—Miss Helen Welch.

Juliette Bean (Boarding House Keeper)—Miss Elizabeth McCann.

Chairman Carter (Who Thinks She is a Vamp)—Miss Elenore Lanfitt.

Judy (a Little Clodhopper from the Poor-house)—Miss Alma Schmelzenbach.

The story of the play reveals that Judy is a trusting little clodhopper from the poor house, whose father has deserted her years ago, but he is a rich man now in Texas and writes to the Mrs. Boggs, who was the former matron of the poorhouse, and asks her to locate his daughter. Mrs. Boggs, knowing that Judy will be his heir, determines to marry her to her son, who is a city dude. This causes many laughable situations to araise.

HAPPY DAYTONIAN NOW BROADCASTING ADVICE

It's unfortunate that Mrs. Ida E. Sodders, 211 Fillmore street, Dayton, Ohio, does not possess a radio broadcasting apparatus, as she would no doubt be engaged at this time in broadcasting the merits of Ka-di-ok, the wonderful herbal stomach tonic and system toner, throughout the land, instead of being confined to telling all her friends about what it did for her. Mrs. Sodders was a sufferer for over two years with general debility, loss of appetite, very nervous and worn-out, constipated, smothering pains about the heart causing her occasional fainting spells, loss of sleep, and severe headaches. Acting upon advice from friends, she procured Ka-di-ok and began taking that medicine. To the Ka-di-ok representative, several days ago, she made this statement: "It's the only medicine that puts me on my feet, and Kadi-ok did it quickly. It acts like magic and does the work well, and, I believe, for good. If I could reach all my suffering friends, I would tell them of the wonderful Ka-di-ok."

Mrs. Ida Sodders

Any druggist will show you Ka-di-ok, and if your ailments are enumerated on the bottle, better get one and start today on the right road to health.

Each table was centered with a Maypole, from which pastel colors were draped to the edge of the table. Lighted candles and early spring flowers added to the attractiveness of the effects. Miss Helen Baker, of Washington, Pa., the house guest of Miss Kathryn Vodrey, was a special guest.

The informal hours were spent with music, games and "stunts."

This was the final meeting of the club year. The fall sessions will open during October.

The roster of the club includes Misses Rachel Baxter, Ruth Baxter, Lydian Bennett, Elizabeth Bloor, Ogalalla Boden, Lillian Bradfield, Catherine Hickey, Helen Lewis, Harriet Miller, Ima Miskall, Emma McDonald, Grena Parker, Kathryn Vodrey, Mary Whitehill, Hazel Geiger and Jessie Hall.

Salesman For Skin Cream Learns How To Clear Up Pimply Complexion

Arthur Reich, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I was a salesman of creams for healing pimples, blemishes, etc., but when my face broke out with blotches, pimples, and blackheads I tried one salve after another with no permanent results.

"I found it as impossible to sell skin cream as a bald-headed man finds selling hair tonic. Finally I decided I would have to get at the cause—the blood. I was amazed to find that within a few days after taking Carter's Little Liver Pills, my skin took on a new healthful look, blemishes started to disappear and I felt like a new person all around. Now I know what to do when I have a pimply skin, you bet." This old reliable remedy treats such complaints in a safe way. It has been used all over the world for 67 years. For sale at all druggists.

Chinese Women Take Steps to Win Back Culinary Reputation

SHANGHAI, China, May—The best cooks in China are men. This is an acknowledged fact, but the 'new women" of Canton, stung by forced admission of their inferiority in the culinary arts, are taking steps to remedy the condition.

Recently a group of cantonese women opened a restaurant. Notwithstanding the fact that every member of the staff, from manager to waitress was a woman, they found it necessary, after a few days' trial and disappointment with feminine cooks, to engage a mere man to shuffle the skillets and pans.

The Women's Rights Association of Canton now plans to open a cooking school for women; a six months' course in the preparation of all Chinese dishes will be given to a limited class of thirty.

DRY RAIDS IN BROOKE COUNTY

Eleven Persons Arrested by Federal and County Officers.

Brooke county was the scene of a number of liquor raids during the week-end when federal, county and Wellsburg police officials swooped down on places in various sections. Six men and five women were arrested and a large quantity of whisky and home brew confiscated. At a negro dance in a hotel north of Fifth and Charles streets, Wellsburg, officers searched the attendants and found seven quarts of moonshine in the possession of three women and three men. They were Ada Williams, Geneva Jefferson, Jennie Clark, R. W. Williams, Dennis Smith and Charles Williams. The six were removed to the county jail and will be arraigned before Squire A. B. Collett on charges of possessing liquor. This raid was made by Deputy Prohibition Commissioner Alonzo Prince, Sheriff Robert M. Lowe and his forces, and the Wellsburg police.

An hour later county and federal officers went to McKinleyville by auto and uncovered a home brewing plant that was apparently operating on a large scale. In house No. 8 of the mining settlement, they found 350 quarts of beer and 50 gallons of mash, all of which was destroyed with the exception of the necessary evidence. Nick Kalatis and Helen Lorry were arrested, but the woman was later released when the former claimed ownership of the illicit beverage. Kalatis is being held in the county jail, awaiting a hearing.

County officers alone, under the direction of Sheriff Lowe, went to Beech Bottom and raided an old mine settlement near Short Creek. One gallon and a half of moonshine was seized and two negroes were arrested. The pair said they were Pearl Jayner and John Crowden, the latter only a boy of 17 years. Both were taken to the county jail.

The last raid was an invasion of Follansbee by federal and county authorities, when they confiscated whisky and wine in the home of Frank Ciccarelli on Virginia avenue. The liquor was concealed in a hidden cellar that was located only after a long search. Ciccarelli was arrested and will likely be arraigned for a hearing today.

MASONIC TEMPLE DEDICATED WITH FITTING CEREMONIES

Grand Lodge Officers Take Part in Exercises—Attend Services in Presbyterian Church—Parade and Band Concert Held.

New Lisbon lodge No. 65, F. & A. M., instituted January 21, 1922, dedicated its new temple, East Lincoln way, Sunday afternoon, and because of the presence of the grand officers of Ohio, the event is considered the outstanding event in the Masonic history of Columbiana county.

It is recalled that this is the first time in the history of Ohio that a session of the grand lodge officers was ever held in Columbiana county, and also it was the first time that the grand officers ever attended a Sunday service in a body. Both of these events now go to the credit of Columbiana county.

For many weeks officers and various committees of New Lisbon lodge No. 65 have been arranging for the dedicatory service. Every detail that was necessary to handle a large crowd was taken into consideration, with the result not an incident happened on Sunday to mar the event—except a shower following the parade.

Shortly before 9 o'clock Sunday morning a caravan of motor cars went to Salem to carry the officers of the Grand Lodge, members of Clifton lodge of Cleveland, the escort of the Grand Lodge officers and the drum corps of Holy Grail Commandery of Lakewood on to Lisbon. Two special coaches had been attached to the Pittsburgh-Cleveland flyer arriving at Salem at 9:50 o'clock.

As soon as the caravan returned to Lisbon, a brief period was offered for registration in the Masonic temple, and then headed by Grand Master Hon. James B. Ruhl of Cleveland all Masons in Lisbon attended the morning service at the Lisbon Presbyterian church. So great was the crowd that the entire main auditorium of the church at Market and Chestnut street was reserved for the guests of the congregation. Members of the church and other visitors occupied seats in the Sunday school room. Scores remained standing throughout the service.

Taking his text from I Kings 7-13, "And King Solomon sent and fetched Hiram out of Tyre," the Rev. P. W. Macauley said in part:

"Hiram of Tyre was the king's choice of all men with whom he came in contact. He gave Hiram the most intricate work to perform. Hiram was a widow's son. His father was a worker in brass. He met every requirement. In this chapter of I Kings you will read how he finished the temple which required 13 years to build and how well he did his work. To be known as the widow's son would today prove to be a poor introduction, but this widow's son had the ability to work and the willingness to do. He was an ideal man, and what a wonderful temple he built for the king. We're crowning the king more and more today than ever before, the king for whom Solomon builded a temple.

"In our history we find that Lincoln, called from the back woods was a Hiram fetched out of Tyre. It's a case where God never makes a mistake when He calls a man to perform a task. He called Hiram of Tyre, the widow's son. What a poor introduction? But Hiram was a man of skill. In God's way of looking for a man, there is no scanning of parental history. Lincoln was the king's choice. The king's choice was Woodrow Wilson; the king's choice was Warren G. Harding—men who gave their lives for their country. What God wants is the man, when building a temple today. You men came here today to dedicate a temple. No matter where we go we build a temple. We want the Hirams to get back of the building of God's temple. Now you get this: The temple made Hiram, not Hiram the temple. It's just as true today as it was then. The church of God and the cause of christianity needs the builder—and the builder needs the church which is founded upon christianity.

"A man's unseen temple is his soul. Let us all be ready for the King when he sends for Hiram out of Tyre."

The anthem, "Open the Gates of the Temple," was sang by Miss Mary Albright.

At the close of this service, many of the Grand Lodge officers were entertained by friends in Lisbon, while members of Clifton lodge were entertained at dinner as the guests of New Lisbon lodge in the ball room of the Knights of Pythias lodge, the Pythian Sisters being in charge.

Promptly at 1:15 o'clock the Presbyterian band of Lisbon gave a 30-minute concert in the public square.

Knight Templars from Salem, Canton, Alliance, headed by the Grotto drum corps and trumpets of Canton and the Alliance Concert band formed in parade on the county fair grounds. When these commanderies marched east on Chestnut street, other blue lodge members followed, also Harding chapter De Molay of East Liverpool.

Close to 1,200 members of the Masonic fraternity were in line and it required 30 minutes for the parade to pass a given point. A line of march about two and one half miles was covered.

With the parade over, Grand Lodge officers and their escort entered the new Masonic temple, and the ritualistic dedicatory services followed, closing at 5:45 o'clock.

A survey made by traffic officers discloses that upwards of 3,000 machines entered Lisbon between 9 o'clock and 6 o'clock Sunday evening, and at the fair ground the number of cars was not unlike the sight of a fair day.

Among the visiting Masons registering in Lisbon Sunday were Samuel Boston, Kirksville, Mo.; John E. Garrod, Bronx, New York; Fred W. Barr and Gordon, London, Ontario, Canada. The registration sheets also disclose that the entire northeastern Ohio Masonic jurisdiction was represented.

Family night will be observed by the members of New Lisbon lodge tonight.

The annual inspection of this lodge will take place Tuesday night, which will be preceded by dinner at 6:30 o'clock.

Ivy Chapter No. 311, Eastern Star, will have full charge of the dedication week services Wednesday night.

"The Spaniard," Big Photoplay, Feature At Ceramic Theatre

The Paramount picture, "The Spaniard," which will be shown three days, starting today, at the Ceramic theater, is a story of a bull-fighter, hero of Spain, and an English society girl, a born coquette, always looking for new hearts to conquer. She meets and fascinates the Spaniard, who, however, warns her that he does not intend to be just another of her victims and that he is going to conquer her.

Ricardo Cortez plays the title role. Jetta Goudal is Dolores. Noah Beery completes the trio of featured players.

Dolores pays a visit to relatives in Seville and while there attends a bull fight, where she recognizes the matador as the Spaniard, Don Pedro and congratulates herself that she did not accept a common bull-fighter as a husband.

An excursion to a Moorish castle in the mountains near Seville proves a trap. Dolores, seeking shelter from a storm, walks right into a castle, the owner of which proves to be Don Pedro. He holds her a prisoner in the hopes of making her change her mind about marrying him, but it only tends to make the girl more furious.

The Spaniard is a firm believer in cave man tactics in taming his women, but he finds they don't work with Dolores. He undergoes a change of heart and consents to take the girl out horseback riding. Dolores makes use of this opportunity to escape by slashing the Spaniard's horse across the flank and dashing madly cross-country, right into a bandit hangout.

How she fares with the cut-throats, how the Spaniard finally effects her rescue and wins her love, makes "The Spaniard" one of the season's most highly entertaining productions.

MANY DRY CASES FOR GRAND JURY

The next session of the grand jury will be devoted principally to the consideration of cases involving breaking of the prohibition laws. Since the last session of the circuit court a number of persons have been arrested and bound over to await the action of the grand jury on the above count. Most of the alleged violations have occurred in the other end of the county.

Weirton police officials have been busy during the past few weeks and have broken up several places where it is alleged the dry law was being violated.

Miss Rogers Gained 15 Pounds in Six Weeks

Skinny Men and Women Gain 5 Pounds in 30 Days or Money Back.

My dear Friends:

After my attack of Flu I was thin, run-down and weak. I had a sallow complexion, my cheeks were sunk in, and I was continually troubled with gas on my stomach. I felt stuffy and had lost my appetite. I had read about McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets and decided to give them a trial. At once, I began to pick up an appetite, my cheeks filled out and my complexion became healthy looking and I gained 15 pounds in six weeks and am very thankful for what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for me.

Miss Albert Rogers, 264 W. Cerro Gorda St., Decatur, Ill.

To take on weight, grow strong and vigorous, to fill out the hollows in cheeks and neck, try McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets for 30 days. 60 Tablets—60 cents at Anderson, Larkin, Carnahan and Mathews' Medicine Stores, and live druggists everywhere. If they don't give you wonderful help in 30 days, get your money back—you be the judge. But be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine.

City Industrial Baseball League Clubs In Auspicious Opening

Auto Parade Precedes Lid Lifter; Three Fast Games Are Dished Up

Chester, Wellsville and K. T. K. are Winners as Six Clubs Begin Race for Honors.

With three games and following a automobile parade that wended its way through the business section of East Liverpool the City Industrial league opened amid auspicious circumstances Saturday afternoon.

At Chester the home team defeated Laughlin 9 to 2, Wellsville won from Babcock and Wilcox, 7 to 6, while K. T. K. trounced Trotter-Chevrolet, 9 to 6.

Led by the City band and preceded by Captain Mason Conley and Officers James Haley, William Lister and Chester Smith and followed by President C. C. Cline in a closed car with other devotees of the game, the automobiles traversed Broadway, Sixth and Fifth from and to the City library.

Dividing to their playing fields at Klondyke, Chester and Wellsville the assigned clubs began their playing at 3:30 o'clock.

The City band proceeded to Klondyke, where it dispensed music during the contest. There Mayor Brown, of East Liverpool, gave the league officials prestige by his presence, as did Mayor Frank Riley, of Chester, in the latter city.

At Chester the crowd was well cared for by Chief Brady Seevers, thus enabling the play to be witnessed by all in attendance. The new field was singularly dry despite the recent rain following a hurried scraping, making fast play possible.

Despite the cool atmosphere a large crowd witnessed the K. T. K. game with the Trotter-Chevrolet club which had been transferred from Patterson field because of the Salineville-East Liverpool field meet there.

K. T. K. finally won, 9 to 6, though Trotters led for three innings, by one run.

Sanior allowed nine hits which he kept well scattered. R. Pollock was succeeded by Barr in the fourth inning after the bases had been filled and a run forced in. Both Sanior and R. Pollock were wild.

A. Bayley led in hitting with three hits, two doubles and a single in five times up. Herbert hit timely as did Simcox. Sainor likewise singled with the bases full. Sothern and C. Coleman contributed star catches.

Several hundred fans, huddling together in close formation to nullify the cold breeze that blew over Smith field saw the snappy Chester team run away from the fast Homer Laughlin club, of Newell, in the initial City Industrial league contest on their home lot Saturday afternoon. The score was 9 to 2.

M. Cebula, the speedy young West Virginia twirler, held the pottery contingent to four hits. He struck out 13 men and had two doubles besides a flashy fielding play that saved a run.

M. Cebula whiffed every one of his opponents except Reese, who singled in his only batting appearance, and McGeehan, who walked twice in three efforts. W. Munday breezed twice, once with the bags full and the second with two on. Mal Myers led off in the fourth with a strike out, while Reardon suffered thrice in five tries.

Reese was taken out in the fourth when a single, two fielder choices following an error had clogged the paths. He passed C. Marshall, thus enabling P. Cebula to score the first run of the game.

Five runs resulted ere McGeehan retired the side. Three hits, one a double, gave Chester two more in the fifth, while an error by Myers and M. Cebula's second double, resulted in Rector's scoring in the eighth.

McGeehan, walking in the fifth, finished on a couple of errors, while Watson, safe on P. Cedula's miscue in the seventh, was forced home after the bases had been filled by another walk and single.

Rector and P. Bennett showed some fancy fielding in the ninth when three long drives reached their territory.

KENTUCKY DERBY FIELD IS LARGE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 4.—A field of about 20 is the prospect at present for the fifty-first running of the Kentucky derby. That may be whittled down considerably before post time a week from next Saturday, or—what is more unlikely—the great classic may draw to the barrier from the 139 nominations for the race several which today seem certain to start because they don't look to have the remotest outside chance.

The course of events in racing at various tracks and in workouts here and elsewhere this week and early next will tip the scale of judgment concerning some eligible candidate in many an owner's mind. That is what will decide with him whether it is worth while to pay the $500 starting fee.

OLD TIME STARS WITH MINORS

Veterans of Yesteryear Find Havens in Class A A. Teams.

NEW YORK, May 4. — Where are the stars of yesterday? asked the great bard, and echo answers where? A fortunate few retire to a life of ease and re-go into various small businesses, some of which make money. But the vast majority find a haven in some minor league, getting by on what they know, if anything. Sooner or later, Age, the inevitable, overtakes them and then—oblivion. They can't all be Joe McGinnitys, pitching winning baseball at 52.

Some of them, however, last an unconscionable time. Take the case of Beals Becker, for example. Beals was in the majors some 17 years ago and since passing down below has been one of the leading hitters of the Class AA leagues. He is doing nicely right now with Seattle. On the same club is Jim Bagby, who topped the American league pitchers as late as 1920.

Old Timers.

Not far away, at Sacramento, is Ray Keating, a Yankee pitcher of the pre-Chance era; Merlin Kopp, with the Athletics eight years ago, and Bob Schang, brother of Wally and once with the Giants. At San Francisco you will find Jeff Pfeffer, Pete Kilduff and Sam Agnew, to say nothing of Archie Yelle, Tim Hendryx, another old-time Yankee, and Frank Brower.

Ferdie Schupp, who left handed the National league silly in 1917-18, is with Kansas City in the American Association. So is Dr. John Lavan, Jimmy Zinn, Frank Ellerbe and several others.

Frank Gilhooley, another Yankee favorite of other days, is with Toronto, of the International league.

More Stars.

Down below we find Harry Courtney, ex-Senator; Hugh Bedient, star of the 1912 world series while with the Boston Red Sox; "Red" Smith, ex-Dodger and ex-Brave; Wilbur Good, Paul Fittery and Bert Niehoff teamed up on the Atlanta Crackers with several recent major league discards, identity unimportant.

Ray Caldwell, one of the best pitchers of a decade, when right, which was seldom, is with Little Rock. So is Hod Eller, the shine baller who fanned six white Sox in a row, establishing a world series record in 1919.

Larry Kopf, Red shortstop in the same series, is another Little Rock asset, and right alongside of him is Russell Blackburne, whose $12,000 purchase by the White Sox years ago startled the baseball world of that time.

These are only a few of the many. Like bootleggers, the ex-stars are all over.

Six million square feet of window glass made in Belgium is to be shipped to the Pacific Coast of this country.

YANKS, TIGERS ARE ON SKIDS

Cardinals' Fall and Cleveland Spurt are League Surprises.

By DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, May 4.—With the New York Yankees further contributing to the gaiety of the occasion by dropping three of their four games and several notches in the percentage table, the major league races during the week just closed were not without their customary surprises. Chief among these were the loss of seven straight by the Cardinals, rated as one of the best hitting outfits in baseball. The sustained excellence of the Indians' play and the sudden rush of the Cubs.

The Pirates' record of four straight victories was to be expected, however. That club has too much inherent power to languish long in the second division.

It was the Yankees and Detroit Tigers who furnished the sad news. This pair, supposed to be pennant contenders of the first water, are the scandal of a baseball, as they continue to lose with monotonous regularity. A few more weeks of this kind of baseball and their pennant chances will pass away beyond recall.

Some aver the Yanks are qutting cold because Ruth is out of the lineup. They point to the fact that the club played better ball in 1922 with Ruth missing than it did after his return as proof of this contention. The truth of the matter is that the Yanks are far from the same ball club. They had good pitching then and today it is less than ordinary.

The Yanks got 39 hits in four games last week but only 12 runs, proving that they are wasting their safeties. The Red Sox have won only four times since the start of the season, but two of them were lifted from the Yanks last week. Another thing: The Yanks hit sometimes but never behind good pitching.

A general collapse of the pitching staff is the answer to the Tigers' position. They averaged about seven runs and 10 hits a game last week, yet lost five out of six.

The Pirates also hit well but to far greater advantage. In fact, their record of 31 runs scored on 39 hits just about constitutes a record. It is slight wonder that they won all three games played up to and including Saturday.

Good pitching kept the Senators in stride with the astonishing Indians, the world's champions getting only 24 runs in five games. The Indians stepped out with 30 runs and 55 hits in the same number of contests, while the Chicago White Sox, another surprise entry, were winning three out of five games with the weakest exhibition of hitting they have shown since the start of the season.

But the Sox, like the Indians, made every hit have a meaning all its own, getting 29 runs on 39 hits.

The Cubs won four out of five games with an average of a bit more than four runs a game, meaning that the Chicago pitching staff was functioning in the most approved manner.

The depressing series of losses by the Cards can be traced alike to indifferent pitching and failure to hit with men on. The Cards averaged two runs a game for four games last week, which is our idea of nothing at all.

Both the Giants and Reds fell away a bit from their early speed. The McGraw entry managing to win three out of five in spite of mediocree pitching. The Reds slipped in hitting, getting nine runs and 34 hits in four games, of which they dropped three.

The Phillies, hitting like fools, won four out of seven, and managed to remain in the first division, while the Dodgers, recovering their latest punch, averaged more than 10 hits a game, but lost three out of four.

How to Solve Puzzle.

The best way to solve this cross-word puzzle is to run over the list of horizontal and vertical synonyms in search of evident or "easy" words. If horizontal, the word you are looking for must extend crosswise from the number to the first shaded stop on the right; if vertical, it must extend downward from the number to the first shaded stop below. When finished, the words should read equally well crosswise and downward.

Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" Add Four Victories to List

The Sunnyside "Rinky Dinks" added four more victories to their season's record, over the week-end by defeating the McKinley "Loafers" and the LaCroft nine and also by forfeited games by the St. Stephen's Choir boys and the Merchant Juniors.

The McKinley "Loafers" were vanquished, 8 to 7, the game going 10 innings. The batteries were: "Rinky Dinks," R. Hanlon, F. Callahan and C. Callahan; "Loafers," Pardell and DeAlmon.

The "Rinky Dinks" came out on the long end of a 31-9 score with the La Croft team in a game witnessed by a large number of fans. The score:

"Rinky Dinks"..... 5 0 1 1 0 0 1 5 0—31
La Croft ..... 4 2 0 3 0 0 0— 9

Batteries:—Callahan, R. Hanlon and L. Hanlon; Gray and Pasio.

SUNNYMAN, FAST COLT, IS DEAD

BALTIMORE, Md., May 4.—An investigation was under way today into the death of Sunnyman, Willis Sharpe Kilmer's promising colt, which was being primed for the Preakness and the Kentucky derby.

J. P. Smith, trainer, charged the colt was poisoned. There were evidences that Sunnyman had been administered chloral and arsenic prior to his race at Havre de Grace Monday, when he was beaten, Smith said.

Sunnyman had turned in some sensational times in trials. The colt was insured for $150,000.

Church Baseball League Officers To Meet Tuesday

Officers and executives of the Church Baseball league will hold a business meeting in St. John's Lutheran church at 8 o'clock Tuesday evening.

The league will include six teams, entries having been made by the Boyce Methodist Episcopal, First Baptist, Second United Presbyterian, St. John's Lutheran, First and Second Christian churches.

Members of the First Christian church team will practice at Columbian park Tuesday evening.

Tagging The Bases

In keeping with the neutral tint of the Yankee situation in general, Gray left handed Huggins' outfit scoreless, the Athletics winning 1 to 0 when Miller socked a homer in the second.

Hornsby wafted two off the premises as the Cardinals broke their long losing streak with an 8 to 7 decision over the Cubs. Dickerman and Dyer almost blew the works in the ninth, but Day stopped the Cubs in time.

Rain and the exigencies of train schedules forced the Indians and Tigers to call it an afternoon with the score tied at 6 to 6.

Dutch Reeuther not only pitched the Red Sox into submission, 7 to 2, but his hitting started a pair of sensational rallies in the third and fifth.

CIRCUS DAY IS DRAWING NEAR.

Educated ponies are still featured with the Gentry Bros.-Jas. Patterson Circus, which will be here Wednesday, May 6.

Says Understanding Needed to Prevent Conflict in East

BERKLEY, Cal., May—'War in the Pacific will come unless the United States adopts a new attitude toward the countries of the orient," according to Dr. William Axling, pastor of the Baptist Tabernacle at Tokyo, who spoke to the foreign students at the University of California recently.

Dr. Axling, who was official interpreter for the Japanese delegation at the Washington disarmament Conference in 1922 and is an authority on international affairs, told the students that our task is to build across the Pacific a bridge of real understanding and that out of that will come friendship and international brotherhood.

Wild Hunt for Child.

DEFIANCE, May — Hundreds of persons were called from their beds, by the ringing of fire bells, to aid police and firemen in a search of 7-year-old Della Ruth who disappeared from an Elks' bazaar at 11 o'clock at night and did not reach her home here until 5 a. m. the next day. It developed that the child, becoming tired, crawled into the auto of Frank Coressel, thinking it was her father's car. Not noting the child, Coressel drove home and locked the auto and child in his garage. Cries of the distracted child next morning resulted in her discovery.
